For the records

'Day After' touches off hot debate

By THOMAS FERRARO
United Press International

Millions of Americans gathered in homes, schools and churches Sunday night to watch ABC-TV's "The Day After," a gripping dramatization of nuclear war and the rallying point of an escalated national debate on nuclear arms.

Secretary of State George Shultz, appearing on ABC's "Viewpoint" program immediately after the movie, said the film underscored the nation's policy that "nuclear war is simply not acceptable."

Antinuclear groups, however, said the movie showed that America's traditional peace-through-strength policy is insane in the nuclear age and that a reduction in arms is now needed to save mankind.

The White House said the movie would mount support for President Reagan's military buildup policies, but nuclear disarmament activists insisted it was already rallying support for their cause.

Rep. Robert Matsui, D-Calif., who favors a nuclear freeze, said the movie will "at the very least, fuel the debate surrounding the best strategy for avoiding nuclear confrontation. The resulting questioning and discourse can only benefit us all."

Psychiatrists, concerned about the impact of the movie on America's mental health, warned that the 2¼ hour program could cause high anxiety, nightmares and despair. Many set up hotlines to help shaken viewers.

From Maine to California, there were thousands of group viewings as the program became a national event. ABC declined to predict how many tuned in, but some in the media had offered estimates up to 70 million. Official figures are expected to be compiled and released Monday.

Three years in the making, "The Day After" depicted the destruction of Kansas City in a nuclear war and the nightmarish struggle by survivors 38 miles away in Lawrence, Kan.

Shown at 7 p.m. MST, the first missiles were fired an hour into the program. Across TV screens, people were shown being incinerated, buildings imploded and chaos reigned.

The movie gave no hint who started the nuclear weapons exchange between the United States and Soviet Union, but the message was clear: It could happen today and no one is safe.

"There is no role for nuclear war," Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern told students in Ann Arbor, Mich., shortly before the movie began. "If the film can get that across, maybe it will contribute to world sanity."

In Kansas City and Lawrence, local residents held candlelight vigils and held group viewings of the film that depicted the annihilation of their home towns.

"We must make the world safe for the children," The Rev. Bud Cooper told one gathering at Asbury United Methodist Church in Kansas City. "This is an adult issue."

At the same time, members of the conservative Young Americans for Freedom, who saw the film as propaganda against Reagan's arms buildup, demonstrated at ABC affiliates nationwide.

One protest was in Lynchburg, Va., where about 30 students from The Rev. Jerry Falwell's Liberty Baptist

Striking bus workers vote on contract

By PATRICIA WALSH
United Press International

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Striking union locals around the country began voting Sunday on the latest Greyhound contract offer that would cut wages about $40 a week.

New Orleans police and the FBI investigated a gunfire attack on a bus.

About 115 Amalgamated Transit Union members in Cheyenne, Wyo., voted Sunday, but Jim Hayes, president of ATU Local 1126 based in Omaha, said the outcome would not be revealed until Nov. 28. About 12,700 union members were involved in the 20-day-old strike.

Union officials have recommended rejection of the proposal, which reportedly would cut wages 7.8 percent as opposed to an earlier proposed 9.5 percent cut. The company also wants to reduce benefits.

Negotiations have been suspended until the vote is completed. Votes were to be relayed back to Phoenix, where Greyhound is headquartered, by Nov. 29.

In Denver, striking drivers met Saturday night to vote on the proposal and other members were to cast ballots today.

"I think it will go down," said M.L. Van Duyne of Golden, Colo. "If we're off three months . . . we've been off three months before."

None of the 14 people aboard the bus en route from New Orleans to Mobile, Ala., were injured in the shooting Saturday night, but one bullet struck a window and another punctured a tire. New Orleans Police and the FBI were investigating the shooting.

"He (the bus driver) heard the noise and pulled the bus over on the side of the road," said Jim Reid, a spokesman for Greyhound's district office in New Orleans. "He went to see what happened. He saw a bullet hole in the window."

Twelve passengers were transferred to a replacement bus after being questioned by police for two hours. A non-union driver and a company-hired security guard also were aboard.

Amalgamated Transit Union international vice president Ellis B. Franklin said the union opposed such violence.

"We've said time and time again we don't condone any violence," Franklin said. "However, we lay the entire responsibility on (Greyhound Chairman John) Mr. Teets because he was the one to resume operations in the face of our asking not to resume operations."

The union says Greyhound is jeopardizing public safety by using replacement drivers.

A bomb threat was telephoned to the Port Authority bus terminal in New York City Saturday, and in Georgia two vehicles — one with a strike sign over its license plate — tried to run a bus off the road. But violence nationwide has eased since more than 130 arrests were made when Greyhound resumed operations on Thursday.

Candles in Lawrence proclaim 'day before'

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — About 1,500 people, holding flickering candles and shivering in the cold, gathered on a hill between a U.S. flag and a World War II memorial to sing "America the Beautiful" and proclaim Sunday as "the day before" a nuclear holocaust.

Sponsored by "Let Lawrence Live," an anti-nuclear group, the 20-minute ceremony followed the dramatic ABC film depiction of the results of a nuclear war on this midwestern college town of 53,000.

"I don't want the film to be a preview of coming attractions," Mayor David Longhurst told the crowd that gathered at the University of Kansas. "This is still the day before. This is Lawrence, Kansas. Is anyone listening?"

Longhurst's statement was taken from "The Day After" when survivors in Lawrence tried by shortwave radio to reach anyone on Earth who may have survived.

"I am only one person in one small community in the heart of America," Longhurst said. "I can only ask — and ask you to join with me — in asking our leaders, 'What are you going to do about it? What are we going to tell our children?'"

The crowd of residents, children, university students and faculty shivered both from the cold and from the stark scenes they had just witnessed on their television screens.

One university sophomore, from Evelyn Park, Kan., said the movie was much more touching because she saw what her everyday surroundings would look like after a nuclear war.

Robin Levine, who watched "The Day After" in a crowded dormitory room said the alternatives to nuclear war are understanding, compassion, working together and compromise.

Greg Polk, a student from Lawrence, said he attended the rally "to promote peace throughout the world and to inform other countries what could happen. From what we've heard there's a pirate copy of the movie in Russia. Maybe that will help."

Count all missiles, Andropov insists

By TONY PATERSON
United Press International

BONN, West Germany — Soviet leader Yuri Andropov has told West Germany that Moscow will not drop its insistence on counting French and British nuclear missiles at the Geneva arms talks, a government spokesman said Sunday.

The clarification came on the eve of a debate in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, on whether to proceed with the deployment of 96 cruise and 108 Pershing-2 missiles in West Germany. Approval was expected.

Spokesman Peter Boenisch said the Soviet ambassador to Bonn, Vladimir Semjonov, delivered a letter from Andropov to West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl Friday with the message on the medium-range weapons.

The note contradicted Kohl's remarks Thursday that the Soviets might be ready to make concessions at Geneva by dropping the French and British weapons from the talks — considered one of the main stumbling blocks to agreement.

Diplomatic sources in Bonn viewed the contradictory statements on the missile talks as a sign of a power struggle in the Kremlin stirred by Andropov's reported prolonged illness. He has not been seen in public for three months.

The offer was raised by the chief Soviet negotiator at Geneva, Yuli Kvitsinski, during a walk in a park with his U.S. counterpart, Paul Nitze, last weekend, officials had said.

The offer reportedly called for a Soviet ceiling of 120 SS-20 missiles in Europe in return for a U.S. withdrawal of plans to deploy 572 new cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in western Europe.

Soviet Defense Minister Dimitry Ustinov firmly denied the offer in the Soviet newspaper Pravda Friday. The United States had rejected at any rate because it said the proposal would retain the Soviet monopoly in medium-range missiles.

Some 200 anti-missiles demonstrators staged a torchlight vigil outside the Kohl's offices late Sunday to protest the planned missile deployment. Police said there were no arrests.

More than 3,000 anti-missiles protesters planned to "besiege" Parliament with a sit-down protest during the parliamentary debate.

The deployment likely will be approved in the Parliament vote, expected Tuesday, because Kohl, a conservative who favors basing the U.S. missiles in his country, has a safe majority.

The opposition Social Democrats and anti-nuclear Greens overwhelmingly voted against the deployment at party conventions during the weekend.

Israel retaliates against Palestinians with heavy air raids

By JACK REDDEN
United Press International

BEIRUT (UPI) — Waves of Israeli planes bombed Palestinian bases in the Syrian-controlled mountains outside Beirut Sunday in retaliation for attacks on Israeli occupation forces.

One of the attacking jets was shot down.

Official Beirut Radio said two Moslem Druze civilians in the town of Sofar were killed and eight others wounded in the third Israeli air strike against targets in Lebanon this month.

There was no immediate announcement about casualties among the Palestinian guerrillas.

Clashes between the Druze Moslem militia and the Lebanese army broke out late Sunday on the frontline in the mountains behind Beirut. Official Beirut radio said artillery exchanges between the army at Souk el Gharb and the Druze in Aley and Baysour escalated by early today into machine-gun duels.

In north Lebanon, fighting between guerrillas loyal to Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat and rebels backed by Syria and Libya intensified, with the rebels reported to have entered the city of Tripoli.

"The fighting is too violent to get exact details, but reports indicate that rebels have advanced in from the north and have closed in on Arafat's headquarters (well inside Tripoli)," Beirut radio said.

The rebel advances followed a day of relentless bombardments by rockets, artillery and tanks.

In Israel, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir followed up on the Israeli air raids by vowing more would follow.

"We will fight the terrorists and hit them in Lebanon and elsewhere as long as they direct their efforts toward striking Israel," he said in an Israel Television interview hours after the raids.

He also warned Syria against starting a new war, saying, "The Syrians should know that whoever dared attack Israel received his punishment."

The pilot of the downed Israeli jet bailed out and was taken away by Lebanese soldiers, examined by a doctor and found to be unharmed, said a Western military source.

Hours later, the Israeli Military Command said he was flown home in an Israeli helicopter.

The plane, an Israeli-built Kfir, crashed in an empty field between apartment buildings in southeastern Beirut.

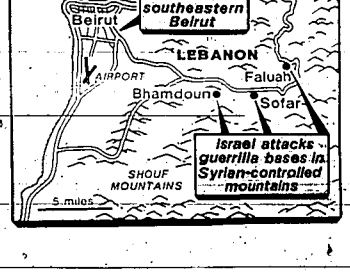

Offial Beirut radio said the Israeli planes did not clash with Syrian jets flying over the area, indicating the Kfir was downed by ground fire. But it was not immediately known who brought the plane down.

Israel confirmed the downing — its first air loss since July 24, 1982 — but denied a Syrian report that a second plane was lost.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said the strikes were in retaliation for guerrilla attacks in south Lebanon, indicating a return to the policy of massive retaliation for the assaults.

"They hit everything from Bhamdoun to Dahr el Baidar," said a Western military source in Lebanon in describing the air strikes. Bhamdoun is 12 miles east of Beirut and Dahr el Baidar is 16 miles east of the capital.

In north Lebanon, Syrian forces and Palestinian rebels unleashed relentless barrages of rocket and artillery fire.

Hunters sought after blast

PLEASANT HILL, Iowa (UPI) — Investigators searched a wide swath of ravaged land Sunday for two young hunters presumed killed by an explosion authorities said they may have triggered in a former munitions dump housing more than 12 tons of dynamite.

The blast, which was felt in towns 45 miles away, blew a crater 100 feet across and damaged 50 homes.

Authorities said two teenaged boys were missing and presumed dead in the blast. The youths were identified as Jeff Waddell and Clinton Woodward, both 17.

Investigators said they believed the youths may have triggered the explosion by firing random shots at one of three concrete bunkers where the dynamite was stored.

Women land private plane

LUKE AIR FORCE BASE, Ariz. (UPI) — With the pilot fatally stricken, a 78-year-old woman with no flying experience and a 59-year-old woman who had taken a six-hour "pinch-hitter" course safely landed their small plane Sunday.

Two trailing pilots talked the women down to the landing.

The stricken pilot, Bruce Turner, 57, died of a heart attack a short time later at the base hospital. The two women, Editha Merrill, 78, and Jane Turner, 59, the wife of the pilot, as well as a third passenger, Dorothy Matthews, 65, were unhurt.

Cousteau's voyage thwarted

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Jacques Cousteau, his trans-Atlantic voyage in an experimental wind-powered boat without sails thwarted, arrived in heavy rain to the cheers of a handful of soaked well-wishers Sunday night.

The wind-powered vessel, Moulin a Vent, which means windmill in French, used its engines to reach Norfolk about 7:40 p.m. MST.

Officials for the Cousteau Society said the trip was a success.

Casey willing to take test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William Casey is willing to take a lie detector test to answer questions about whether he received President Carter's debate briefing materials during the 1980 election, it was reported Sunday.

The Washington Post quoted informed sources as saying Casey had agreed to take a polygraph test to help resolve a dispute with White House chief of staff James Baker about the briefing materials.

Reagan, Sudanese confer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan meets today with Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry to discuss economic aid and strife in north Africa, including the Libyan threat.

Numeiry is making his first official visit to Washington since seizing power in a 1969 coup and being elected president in 1971. His visit comes at a time of persistent trouble in Sudan, the largest country in Africa.

The meeting with Numeiry kicks off an abbreviated work week for Reagan, who flies to California Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving at his mountaintop ranch.

China lambasts resolution

PEKING (UPI) — China said Sunday a proposed Senate resolution on Taiwan has "seriously harmed" Sino-U.S. relations and warned they may get worse unless the Reagan administration stops passage of the measure.

"It is an unscrupulous breach of the norms of international relations and is an act of hegemonism pure and simple," said a commentary in People's Daily, the official Communist Party newspaper.

The commentary followed an official protest by China Friday, when it summoned U.S. Ambassador Arthur Hummel to the Foreign Ministry on short notice to denounce the resolution as a violation of China's internal affairs.

Probe delays wreck cleanup

BAYTOWN, Texas (UPI) — The Southern Pacific Railroad Sunday delayed cleanup operations so investigators could study the wreckage of a two-train collision that killed four crewmen, a spokesman said.

The work train crashed into 41 tank cars parked on tracks in a pine forest about 30 miles east of Houston Saturday morning.

Light plane crash kills 4

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A light plane attempting a landing at Boulder Municipal Airport Sunday skidded off the runway and flipped over, bursting into flames and killing the four people aboard, authorities said.

Boulder County Sheriff Brad Leach said witnesses told him the single-engine Grumman Tiger appeared to have trouble landing before it bounced into a field and caught fire.

The Cherokee PA 180 single-engine four-seater was not damaged, authorities said.

Snow storms sweep West; tornadoes hammer Florida

By United Press International

Heavy storms spun tornadoes across northwest Florida Sunday, killing at least one person and destroying buildings and trees and a fishing camp.

The West braced for heavy snow as a storm system pushed into the Rockies.

Winter storm warnings were posted for the Sierra Nevada mountains, most of western Nevada and the mountains of Utah.

Steadily falling snow threatened to isolate western Nevada from the rest of the world Sunday. Reno-Cannon International Airport was forced to suspend all flights because of poor visibility and snow accumulating on the runways. An airport spokesman said more than 20 flights were canceled, only the second time in three years the airport had been shut down by weather.

Up to 8 inches of snow fell in Reno by Sunday evening. Around Lake Tahoe, 8 to 10 inches of new snow fell. Nearly 2 feet of snow was recorded in Nevada's ski areas, while 14 inches of snow covered Donner Pass in California.

More snow blanketed Wyoming. The chain law was in effect Sunday afternoon on Interstate 80 from Lyman to Evanston as a massive storm system over the Intermountain region pushed into western Wyoming.

A few semi-trailers were turned over in the ditches along the interstate, truckers reported.

"It's not too bad for me — I'm in the building," said Melody Barnes, a cashier at a Wyoming truck stop. But out on the highways, she said, "It's awful slick. It's like a sheet of ice."

Thunderstorms and twisters slashed across Dixie Sunday.

Don Peterson goes for aid after Columbus, Ga., tornado

Five tornadoes, spawned by thunderstorms, touched down in north Florida in less than 15 hours, officials said.

One man, who was helping to direct traffic on a road near Pensacola, Fla., where winds toppled trees and power lines, was electrocuted Sunday when he touched a fence electrified by a fallen line.

High winds in Alabama flattened a few farm buildings Sunday. The National Weather Service said tornadoes damaged cars in Turin, Ga., and flattened trees near the Columbus, Ga., airport. Hail the size of baseballs pounded rural areas north of Atlanta.

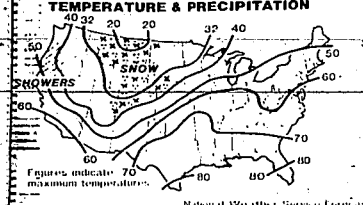

More than 2¼ inches of rain fell at Milton, Fla., 2 inches at Dyersburg, Tenn., and nearly 2 inches at Montgomery, Ala.

The storms spread from the Southeast to the Midwest. A Purdue University scientist blamed "gustnados" packing winds of 50 mph for damage to several apartment buildings and a shopping mall in Lafayette, Ind.

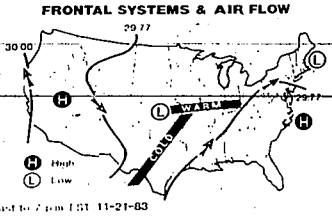

The winds, which professor Ernest Agee called a cross between a gust and a tornado, tore the roofs from several apartment buildings and shattered windows.

Scattered snow showers today in Northern Nevada. Highs in the 30s. Northeast winds 5 to 15 mph. A few snow flurries tonight and Tuesday. Lows 5 to 15 and highs in the 30s.

Synopsis:

A storm blowing in from the coast will miss most of Idaho, but a travelers advisory has been issued for southeastern Idaho mountains that may receive some snow.

A deep upper level low pressure system is moving slowly to the northeast. The cold front associated with this system extends from southern Montana through northern Utah into southern Nevada. The main strength of the storm should remain to the south of Idaho.

The remainder of the state can expect scattered snow showers — mainly over the mountains — through Tuesday.

Rain fell in southeastern Idaho and in parts of the panhandle, Sunday, with rain mixed with snow reported at Coeur d'Alene and Mullan. Light snow was recorded in Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Malad and Soda Springs. Skies were cloudy elsewhere in the state.

Temperatures Sunday afternoon remained in the 30s over much of the state but readings in the low to middle 40s were common in the lower Western valleys.

Overnight lows were generally in the upper 20s and 30s. Minimums ranged from 8 degrees at Stanley to 40 at Lewiston, which recorded Idaho's high on Sunday with a reading of 49 degrees.

The extended forecast for the Magic Valley and southern Idaho calls for no rain or snow on Wednesday. Scattered snow showers in the mountains and rain or snow showers in some valleys Thanksgiving Day and Friday. Highs mostly in the 30s. Lows 10 to low 20s Wednesday and 20s to low 30s Thanksgiving Day and Friday.

Elsewhere in the nation the lowest temperature recorded on Sunday was 7 degrees in Alamosa, Colo., and the highest was 85 degrees in Miami, Fla.

Jury orders Simplot, partner to pay $460,000 in spud scheme

BOISE (UPI) — A federal jury has ordered Boise industrialist J.R. Simplot and a Washington business partner to pay a Detroit man $460,000 in a 1976 potato futures market manipulation scheme, a lawyer in the case said.

Christopher Lovell, an attorney for retired Detroit businessman Joseph Strobl, said the U.S. District Court jury in New York determined last week that Simplot and Peter Taggares, Othello, Wash., conspired to fix prices of Maine potato futures contracts in violation of antitrust laws.

Lovell said the jury also found that Simplot and Taggares manipulated prices of the futures contracts in violation of the Commodities Exchange Act and engaged in fraud by creating artificial prices and an appearance of fair prices in violation of New York common law.

Simplot, who is the largest potato processor in the nation; Taggares, another large potato processor; and officials of their companies, J.R. Simplot Co. and P.J. Taggares Co. would not comment on the case.

Lovell said the defendants had indicated they would appeal.

The verdict, reached late Thursday, marked the first time a jury has awarded damages in a market manipulation case in the 100 years that commodities have been traded in the United States, Lovell said.

Strobl filed suit against Simplot and Taggares after the defendants failed to fill futures contracts calling for the delivery of 50 million pounds of Maine potatoes, Lovell said.

Simplot said in 1976 that the Maine potatoes incident was a bluffing game among big potato speculators. "I didn't do anything wrong," he said previously.

Lovell said Simplot and Taggares maintained in the suit that they acted individually.

He also said the defendants contended the potato default was not their fault because of market and transportation conditions at the time the contracts were due.

In 1978 Simplot and his firms were barred by the Commodities Futures Trading Commission from participating in the market for six years and were fined $50,000 for manipulating or attempting to manipulate prices of Maine and Idaho potatoes, officials said.

Taggares was barred from trading for four years, officials said. He, his company, and SimTag farms, a joint Simplot-Taggares venture, were fined $15,000, officials said.

Lovell said Strobl had sought $462,000 in the suit, the amount he claimed he lost in the trading default.

Script makes viewer a nuclear victim

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
United Press International

BOSTON — The author of "The Day After" predicted Sunday the graphic television film would increase public awareness of the horrors of nuclear war by forcing "the average viewer to be the victim."

Ed Hume, a television writer for more than a decade, said his intent "was simple and clear — to examine the risk factor in using nuclear weapons as a primary defense."

Hume, who said he would watch the film at his suburban home with his sons, ages 18 and 14, said the story had to be told through the lives of ordinary people.

"We're trying to get the average viewer to be the victim of a nuclear war in every way, to be cut off from the rest of the world and not know what's going on and to realize how fast the whole thing can happen."

The $7 million movie depicting the annihilation of Kansas City, Mo., in a nuclear war and the nightmarish struggle by survivors 38 miles away in Lawrence, Kan., "is bound to evoke passionate responses," Hume said. It attempts to show "what happens if using nuclear weapons" as a deterrent doesn't work.

"It's a very volatile aspect of the whole debate," Hume said. "People don't want to think about it."

"The problem has been our denial," Hume said. "That's what we're up against. We're going after the defense mechanisms that prevent us from dealing with horrible things."

"The whole point is that we've got to confront this directly," Hume said. "It's like the bogeyman in a dark room. You have to turn around and look it right in the face."

Although Hume, 47, said he isn't prescribing a course of action after watching the film, the author who started writing "The Day After" in 1981 said, "The most important thing is to discuss your feelings and fears."

"Before you can talk in a rational way about making things safer, we have to be able to vent the things we are afraid of," Hume said.

"Our objective is to promote debate," Hume said, "and I believe good things will come out" of the film.

Although the film has been denounced by conservatives as anti-American propaganda aimed at undermining President Reagan's defense buildup, Hume said, "This is not a statement about the nuclear freeze."

"It doesn't focus on who started what," but attempts to show "what can happen to any of us who are not generals or the president able to go to bomb silos."

Hume, who had never been to Lawrence before ABC started shooting the film, said the network asked him if he would be interested in writing the movie.

"I was thrilled at the chance to do it," Hume said. "Like a lot of other people I'm scared of these things, and writing gave me an opportunity to deal with the fears."

"The topic has never been dealt with so directly on television before," Hume said.

Hume also wrote such television movies as "21 Hours in Munich," the story of the murder of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Olympics, "The Terry Fox Story," the biography of a man who lost his leg to cancer, and episodes for "Baretta" and "Cannon."

Both sides plan to 'exploit' TV drama

By THOMAS FERRARO
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Proponents of both nuclear disarmament and military buildup plan to use "The Day After" to bolster their points of view in the coming days through news conferences, forums and TV commercials.

"I think everyone should exploit this for their own causes, regardless of their political spectrum," said Janet Michaud, director of the Campaign Against Nuclear War. "Let a thousand flowers bloom."

Anti-nuclear activists say the movie's warning is that the world is doomed unless nuclear arsenals are reduced. Some conservatives counter that the real message is that America needs a better defense.

The White House, seeking to push President Reagan's peace through strength position, enlisted a legion of administration officials and advocates to appear on TV talk shows to respond to the ABC-TV program.

Several anti-nuclear groups are sponsoring forums and holding news conferences. The biggest impact, however, is likely to be through some slick TV ads.

One features actor Paul Newman on behalf of the Center for Defense Information. Another has actress Meryl Streep speaking for Women's Action for Nuclear Disarmament.

The biggest effort is the 800-NUCLEAR ad sponsored by a coalition of 30 groups. It shows an American and Soviet general blowing up a "world" balloon until it explodes.

"Take off the pressure before it is too late," says the narrator of the 30-second spot. "Call 800-NUCLEAR." Caller will receive "Nuclear War Prevention Kits" that include tips on writing congressmen and joining nuclear freeze groups.

High Frontier, a private group headed by Ret. Army Gen. Daniel Graham, is also seeking air time to push its position that what the United States really needs to avoid nuclear destruction is a non-nuclear defense shield.

The organization has distributed a pair of public service spots to about 40 TV stations nationwide. Many plan to use them as part of their own news reports on the "The Day After."

Says Graham, "The alternative to the ABC horror show is not a nuclear freeze, but the building of a defense system that can protect our nation from nuclear devastation."

College gathered outside WSET and chanted, "ABC and KGB."

Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, has branded the film a "blatant political statement in favor of disarmament" and has threatened a boycott of the program's sponsors.

Antinuclear groups, which hailed it as a public service, sponsored group viewings Sunday night. And this week they will run TV spots aimed at pushing their cause and increasing their membership.

"A $7 million advertising job for our issue," is how Janet Michaud, director of the Campaign Against Nuclear War, described the film.

Reagan had a preview of the film last week and the White House said he welcomed the debate the movie was inspiring.

"It's going to reinforce support for the president," Kenneth Adelman, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press." Shultz was interviewed on "Viewpoint" prior to a discussion by a panel of experts that included former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Kissinger said: "I think that this film presented a very simple minded notion of the nuclear problem. The problem we have to deal with is how to avoid such a war and how to preserve freedom while we avoid this war."

In New York City, hospital secretary Catherine Avakian, 45, saw the film and had a gloomy assessment of the future. She said, For better or for worse, it's a preview of what's to come."

ABC, which insisted the movie took no political position, ended the film with the legend: "It is hoped that the images of this film will inspire the nations of this earth ... to find the means to avert the fateful day."

Shortly after the movie ended on the East Coast, ABC said it had received 1,075 calls about the film. A spokesman said, "662 were supportive of the film, 393 had negative comments" and the rest wanted more information.

In Washington, about 80 people silently watched the movie in the city's council chambers. As it ended, city resident Zera Brook sighed, "We've got to stop it."

Legislator wants Florida freeze poll

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — A legislator plans to file a bill today calling for a statewide straw poll on a nuclear freeze, the morning after a controversial movie about the aftermath of nuclear war is shown on television.

Rep. Peter Deutsch said he wants a straw poll placed on the November, 1984, ballot to test support in Florida for a "mutual and verifiable freeze on the production and deployment of nuclear weapons."

"Everyone has a responsibility to do whatever they can to assure our survival," said Deutsch. "Maybe we will make a statement and make the world a little bit better."

If approved, the straw vote would have no binding effect but would serve to influence public opinion and public policy, he said.

Idaho groups set to help

BOISE (UPI) — Several Idaho groups say they are prepared to deal with people confused or upset about Sunday's ABC television movie "The Day After," a graphic account of nuclear war.

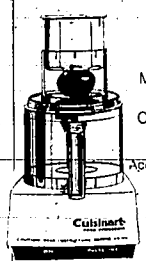

Snake River Alliance spokeswoman Janice Berndt said her group encouraged people to discuss their feelings about the film.

"We'll be in our office prepared to answer the telephone, and if people want we can help them discuss their feelings or figure out what they can do," she said.

She said the group had tried to purchase advertisements during the movie, but ABC affiliate Channel 6 canceled all messages during the movie about nuclear issues.

A spokeswoman for the station said Channel 6 did not want the show to turn into a political platform.

Andrus will run again

Former Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus is quite plainly planning to seek that office again in 1986 when Gov. John Evans finishes his current term. So the question is heard whether Andrus has been gone too long, whether he is unfamiliar to a lot of new Idaho voters. But that is irrelevant. It is the magic Andrus touch with the voters that will decide any election.

Andrus has more name familiarity than most people removed from Idaho politics for the past seven years. For four of those years, he was a respected secretary of the Interior who made his home state proud.

But what made Andrus such a potent vote-getter in the past was that personality, that way he has with people, that natural rapport with people of all political persuasions. Many a conservative Republican respected and voted for the semi-liberal Demoerat. And that was appropriate. Though progressive, Cecil Andrus is more a man of common sense than of doctrinaire political philosophy. He can work with anybody.

And it shows when you meet him. People read him and warm to him. That was what worked for him in the past, not name familiarity, and it will likely work for him again.

Indeed, it already is working. Andrus is starting to move around the state again now and then. He is re-establishing himself with the electorate. Initial indications are that people along the campaign trail are glad to see him again. Around Lewiston and Orofino — communities he represented in the legislature — they are tickled pink to see him. — B.H.

Lad shows promise of a bright future

Dick Manning

Kids these days.

I swore in my younger years I would never use that phrase, but that's when kids were normal. These days, they are a twisted lot. I ought to know, because I have spawned one of the more twisted of the generation.

This sad truth became evident recently when I decided to embark upon another phase of his rearing.

He demonstrated the need of further instruction one day by constructing a facsimile of a check from bits of scrap paper. His intention was to march to market and effect all manner of grandiose purchases.

He explained to me in the impeccable logic of a 9-year-old that he was forced to resort to use of the check, because the postman had not yet delivered his credit cards. He had submitted applications to the good offices of American Express only the week previous. Results could not be expected for at least a fortnight, he reasoned.

I donned my best fatherly tone and launched into an explanation of the ways of the world. "My son, you clearly do not understand. A check is not money. In order for it to serve as such, you must place on deposit with your friendly neighborhood banker the necessary wherewithal to cover the voucher."

He thought for a moment then said, "That's not what you told Mom last week when you wanted those new duck decoys."

Intelligence in children is a highly overrated commodity.

The upshot of the conversation was that I broke a longstanding rule and decided it was time the whelp received an allowance. I was never of the opinion that parents should offer payment to children. Suffering their presence is enough.

But I decided to change my rule on the theory that the progeny could derive valuable experience from the handling of the coin of the realm. His remuneration was set at $1 each and every week. Payments began.

It was then that I learned of the twisted world of children. Since the advent of his allowance, my heir has invested his entire income in a collection of mutants and cretins.

His bedroom has become an alien world peopled by all manner of six-inch-tall beings afflicted with the worst sort of deformities. Each one is armed with sophisticated weaponry and, my son informs, they are in a constant state of battle.

These broken rungs on the evolutionary ladder are snatched from the Star Wars movies. They have unique personae and monikers to match. My child is on a first-name basis with the likes of Weequay, Bib Fortuna, Chief Chirpa Nein Nunb, Zuchuss, Ugnaught and a Bespin security guard. (How one derives security from a Bespin is not exactly clear.)

I am perfectly willing to grant that a certain amount of silliness must be allowed in a 9-year-old's world. I am willing to grant the necessity of owning the likenesses of, say, five or six bellicose freaks. But there would appear to be a point of diminishing returns. After a child has acquired enough creatures to populate a small city, you would think he would dedicate his income to more sensible purchases, such as fishing equipment.

Not so, informed my son, as he unwrapped a new Gamnorrean guard. The problem, he explained, is maintaining a credible military deterrent in an increasingly threatening world.

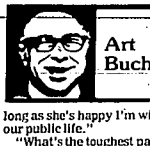

His playmates have spent even more of their allowances acquiring legions of armed blobs. Further, since his collection can expect to come under a sustained attack from neighboring hordes, my child is faced with a serious window of vulnerability problem. He is now working out a plan to borrow on future allowances so that he might immediately fund and deploy sufficient troops to guarantee the defense of his bedroom.

You would probably assume that I would be upset with the childish logic that leads to my youngster's acquisition of troops at the expense of all other pursuits. I have thought about it, and I am not.

In fact, I have begun encouraging him, since the little fellow obviously has a brilliant future with the Department of Defense.

It's a darn shame that a congresswoman isn't better paid

Art Buchwald

As more women go into politics, the public becomes increasingly curious about their spouses.

I found Horace Manley, the husband of Agatha Manley, who was running for Congress for the second time, at home the other day.

He was flustered. "I wish I'd known you were coming," he said. "The house is a mess."

"Don't worry, Mr. Manley, I'm not here to write about your housekeeping. Is the candidate home?"

"No, she's out talking to the United Metalworkers Union. She told me I could have a day off."

"Is it hard to be the husband of a political figure?"

"It has its pluses and minuses. But I've known ever since Agatha completed law school she wanted to go into politics, and as long as she's happy I'm willing to put up with our public life."

"What's the toughest part of it for you?"

"Smiling all the time, and being nice to people because Agatha says they're important to her. I also have to worry about my appearance and wonder if I'm wearing the right suit and if my shoes are shined."

"You mean the voters care what the husband of a candidate looks like?"

"Oh definitely. A husband plays a very important role in a candidate's election. Agatha says even though she does the talking, the electorate is always studying me."

"What do they ask you?"

"They want to know if Agatha is a good mother, and what she really is like at home. I always say she is a real peachy wife."

"You don't sound like you mean it."

"There are times when I get discouraged. I would like Agatha all to myself and it would be nice if she could spend more time with the children. But I never nag or bother her with family problems because I know she's got too many important things on her mind. When she comes home and we can squeeze in a few hours together, the children and I want her to relax."

"Does Agatha depend on you for political advice?"

"Yes, she's very good about that. She lets me sit in on staff meetings at our house after I've served everyone a buffet dinner. She's told me many times I have a better reading on the public pulse than she does, because they say things to me that they're afraid to say to her."

"Could you give me an example of the kind of advice you give her?"

"Well, Agatha, being a woman, is against nerve gas."

"And you're not?"

"There are a lot worse things than nerve gas. But even if she doesn't agree with me, she's very interested in what the male gender is thinking. I wish I could say the same thing for her staff."

"They don't like you to talk to Agatha about politics?"

"They treat me like a dodo."

"How is that?"

"When I'm out campaigning someone is always afraid I'll make a slip if I extemporize, so they insist I stick with the script they've written for me. It's an awful speech, but every time I want to change it [illegible] the election."

"Are you jealous [illegible] around Agatha?"

"Not really. I know they are only attracted to her for her power. I can put up with a lot as long as she doesn't humiliate me or the children in public."

"But at least as a politician's husband you get invited to a lot of parties. That must be fun."

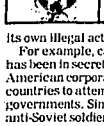

"It would be if someone knew my name. Agatha always introduces me by saying, 'I'd like you to meet my better half.'"

"I notice you're darning your wife's pantyhose."

Horace said bitterly, "Have you ever tried to live on a congresswoman's salary?"

Course available which will let CIA carry out its mission

Jack Landau

WASHINGTON — Almost a decade ago, the stories coming out of the Watergate scandal included disclosures of involvement by the CIA and later of other domestic political interference by the intelligence agency.

This information became public in different ways — through the Watergate prosecutions, congressional investigations and use by scholars and the press of the federal Freedom of Information Act.

The CIA started worrying about what would happen in the future. It couldn't do much about the court system. But it could try to convince Congress to change the federal law and eliminate some of the oversight committees established to monitor CIA activities.

Former CIA Director Stansfield Turner believed that eliminating these watchdog panels would be the easier of the two steps. But he was wrong. Congressmen like to be brought in on the super-secrets of the CIA.

So the agency turned its attention to the Freedom of Information Act. That law allows any citizen to request information from the government, as long as the information is not covered by a special exemption.

The CIA has a broad right to withhold all information not properly classified in the interests of national security. This means that the only information it has to release is information that is improperly classified. The main category of information here is information about CIA activities that are unlawful or in violation of various directives because the agency cannot properly classify its own illegal actions.

For example, cases have shown that the CIA has been in secret partnerships with American corporations active in foreign countries to attempt to overthrow their governments. Similarly, the CIA has forced anti-Soviet soldiers to go back to Russia when it was known they would be executed, and it planned an assassination of Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

It certainly can be argued that this country has an intelligence agency for the purpose of overthrowing foreign governments, or killing hostile foreign leaders, or sending foreign nationals to their deaths in order to maintain good relations with the foreign government. And if the legal assumption is that we want the CIA to have these powers, then Congress simply ought to exempt the agency from having to obey any federal laws.

The difficulty is that Congress has imposed on the agency the requirement that it stay out of domestic politics, for example, and that it not attempt to overthrow foreign governments.

The CIA is willing to take the risk of breaking congressional legislation in order to carry out its mandate, but it is constrained by the knowledge that some of these illegal activities — probably only 1 percent become public through the federal information act.

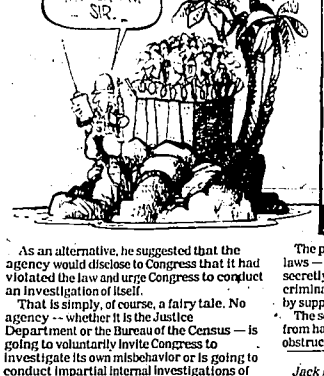

So instead of facing the issue squarely and asking to be exempted from obeying the federal criminal laws and congressional policies, the agency is asking to be exempted from the federal information act — almost the only lawful way to inform the public that it is breaking the law.

The first step of this process will take place next month when the Senate is expected to approve a bill introduced by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to exempt the "operational" files of the CIA from all requests under the federal information act.

The bill, which will probably be agreed to by the House early next year, includes allowing the CIA to suppress all information on "foreign intelligence, counter-intelligence or counter-terrorism." That would cover all the operations in Central America, for example, and in Africa.

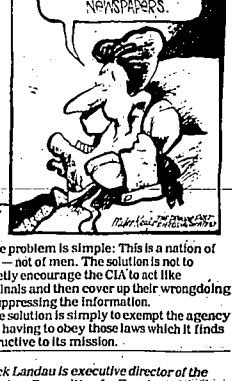

When a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee staff recently appeared before a group of media executives, he was asked how the CIA could justify wanting the right to suppress information showing that the agency is violating the law.

He answered that if the agency discovers that one of its employees or programs is in violation of federal law, then the agency will undertake an investigation of itself. If the agency finds itself guilty, then it will make the results public.

As an alternative, he suggested that the agency would disclose to Congress that it had violated the law and urge Congress to conduct an investigation of itself.

That is simply, of course, a fairy tale. No agency -- whether it is the Justice Department or the Bureau of the Census — is going to voluntarily invite Congress to investigate its own misbehavior or is going to conduct impartial internal investigations of itself and then release the information to the public.

The problem is simple: This is a nation of laws — not of men. The solution is not to secretly encourage the CIA to act like criminals and then cover up their wrongdoing by suppressing the information.

The solution is simply to exempt the agency from having to obey those laws which it finds obstructive to its mission.

Administration officials say Soviets will return to talks

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two top Reagan administration officials said Sunday they do not believe the Soviet Union will permanently walk out of arms control talks because of American deployment of new nuclear missiles in Europe.

"If they do walk out, and I certainly think there will be a recess . . . they will be back," Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Perle said.

"They will be back because the world expects the United States and the Soviet Union to bend every effort to achieve an agreement."

Perle, interviewed on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," also said the Reagan administration intends "to bend every effort to reach an agreement" and pledged the United States "will remain at those talks as long as it takes."

In a separate interview, Kenneth Adelman, head of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, said, "No, I do not," when asked if he thought the Soviets would break off any of the other nuclear arms talks currently being held.

Adelman, interviewed in NBC's "Meet the Press," said that if an agreement were reached with the Soviets on President Reagan's "zero option" arms reduction plan, "We would un-deploy the missiles we have in so far."

KENNETH ADELMAN
Dismisses Soviet threats

The United States has begun the five year process of deploying 572 nuclear-armed cruise and Pershing II missiles in Europe. U.S. officials and its European allies maintain the added weapons are necessary to counter the threat of Soviet missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Amid the debate over the missiles, arms control talks between Washington and Moscow have ground to a virtual halt.

Adelman also dismissed Soviet threats to counter the NATO action, perhaps by deploying new missiles of its own.

"I think this is the kind of threat the Soviet Union makes on an ordinary basis," Adelman said. "I would expect the kind of modernization program the Soviets have had in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union for the last 30 years will continue.

"What will be different on their part is that new efforts on their part that were planned long ago will be called counter-measures rather than just part of the natural modernization."

Both Adelman and Perle said the Soviets are responsible for the failure of talks so far.

"Every single Soviet proposal, those they made in Geneva and those that they made in the press . . . has had the same ultimate result, which is zero intermediate missiles for the United States and several hundred missiles" for Moscow, said Perle, whose area in international security.

"We have really gone the extra mile in the negotiations," Adelman said. "And I think it's time the Soviet Union decided to . . . come forward with something realistic."

Swedes seize U.S. computer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish officials Sunday stopped shipment of a highly sophisticated American computer reported to be a missile guidance system being smuggled to the Soviet Union by a KGB agent in South Africa.

The Times of London reported the KGB was on the verge of "taking delivery of a complete American computerized missile guidance system supplied by the United States to South Africa and then secretly diverted."

The Times said the computer was to have been shipped Sunday from Sweden to the Soviet Union.

A Swedish customs official said the shipment was "frozen" because no customs declaration was received with the equipment. U.S. Embassy officials refused comment on reports Sweden was asked to impound the shipment.

Carl-Johan Aaberg, permanent undersecretary of Sweden's Foreign Trade Ministry, said the computer was being guarded and remain in Sweden for at least "several days."

Three containers believed to hold a VAX 11-782 computer made by the Digital Equipment Corp. arrived in the Swedish free port of Helsingborg last week from South Africa.

Part of the same shipment, containing another computer, was impounded by West German authorities in Hamburg last Monday.

The Times said U.S. and West German officials obtained a court order to seize only one of two computers in the shipment at Hamburg and therefore the second one got through to Sweden where it was to be sent on to the Soviet Union.

Several major cities off limits to Soviets

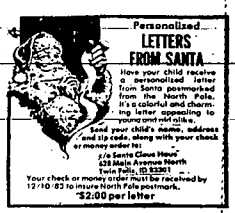

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has eased some limits on Soviet diplomats traveling in the United States, but also declared several major cities off limits for the first time, the State Department said Sunday.

"We did present to the Soviet Embassy a new set of areas in the United States closed to travel by certain Soviet citizens," department spokeswoman Sondra McCarty said.

"At the same time," she added, "we also reiterated our long-time policy favoring the mutual abolition of travel restrictions by both countries."

The New York Times reported the "off limits" list now includes the high technology "Silicon Valley" of California, near San Francisco, as well as Houston, Dallas, Denver, Minneapolis-St. Paul and Seattle.

The new travel rules, delivered in a confidential note last Wednesday, were issued after a lengthy State Department study of the Kremlin's 1978 revision of its restrictions on travel in the Soviet Union by U.S. diplomats, McCarty said.

U.S. keeps military action among Nicaraguan options

By JIM ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Since the invasion of Grenada, the administration has conducted a low-key campaign to raise the possibility of new U.S.-backed military action against Nicaragua or Marxist insurgents in El Salvador.

When asked if the United States is going to support, or participate in, any military action against Marxist regimes, State Department spokesman John Hughes said, "In terms of policy, one never rules anything out or in."

But White House officials, including national security adviser Robert McFarlane, have depicted the Grenadian invasion as a reminder the United States is willing to back up its interests anywhere in the world — with force if necessary.

President Reagan, in an address two days after the occupation of Grenada, hailed the maneuver for derailing a Soviet-Cuban bid to turn the tiny island into a Caribbean bastion for the export of communism and terrorism.

Both the Sandinista government of Nicaragua and the leftist guerrillas operating in El Salvador have been targets of similar Reagan rhetoric.

Late last week, some 1,400 U.S. Marines staged an amphibious assault on a Honduran beach as part of joint military maneuvers, part of a massive exercise that has already included a massing of naval strength in the area.

The Council on Hemispheric Affairs, a Washington-based group, said last week it "has learned from a Reagan administration source that a military option paper has been urgently prepared . . . that evisages U.S. military action against Nicaragua with the period of three to four months."

The possible action is code-named "Pegasus," the council said, and involves the use of U.S. air and naval power to support anti-Sandinista forces that would invade Nicaragua from Honduras.

The council says the option for a military attack against Nicaragua, backed by the United States, but not using U.S. ground forces, is set for January.

Angelo Saballos, a spokeswoman for the Nicaraguan embassy in Washington, said, "We believe it will not be an invasion by U.S. forces, but they will be trying to help out certain forces with logistical support. They would be based from Honduras or Costa Rica or both."

Eden Pastora, one of the anti-Sandinista rebels, believes direct U.S. intervention is possible and has warned U.S. officials against it. He argues that would be the only thing that could unite the Nicaraguan people behind the unpopular Marxist regime in Managua.

Pastora, who is believed to represent a force of some 5,000 men based mainly in Honduras, wants to handle the invasion with local forces.

Rene Fuentes, a guerrilla fighting with the left-wing forces in El Salvador, told United Press International in an interview in Washington last week, "Grenada was the kind of confirmation of fears that everyone in Central America had — that this administration would use force."

Fuentes said Salvadoran guerrillas believe U.S. plans for "external aggression" would involve not only Honduran troops, but also possibly some 4,000 Guatemalan troops near the Salvadoran border.

The Nicaraguans believe the American action is coming in November or December, because that is the best flying weather and air support would be essential. Fuentes thinks any action will come in December and Nicaragua will be the primary target, but it will also involve El Salvador, where government forces have suffered heavy setbacks recently.

Ship leaking engine fuel

NEWPORT, Ore. (UPI) — A Panamanian-registered freighter rammed a jetty and broke apart in heavy seas at the mouth of Yaquina Bay, spewing fuel that threatened a nearby bird sanctuary, the Coast Guard said Sunday.

The 350-foot ship Blue Magpie split nearly in half after running aground Saturday night at the mouth of the bay on the north-central Oregon coast, said Cmdr. Clinton W. Carter.

Its 19 crew members were airlifted to safety by Coast Guard helicopters bucking 40 mph winds. They were taken to Newport Airport, then to a motel. No serious injuries were reported, Carter said.

The skipper of the vessel did not heed warnings to steer clear of the bay, a Coast Guard officer said, and the ship may have been experiencing navigational difficulties in 14-foot seas.

Carter said more than 600 gallons had spilled but that the total could reach 94,000 gallons.

The environmental impact had not been assessed but officials said they were concerned about a bird sanctuary about four miles north of the grounding site.

Head of firm wipes out family

PORTLAND (UPI) — The president of a remodeling company shot and killed his wife, four children and the family dog, then killed himself, police said Sunday.

Robert M. Galloway, 52, president of J&J Remodeling Co., shot his wife, Mary Lou, 44, and their children, James Robert, 20; Ronald, 18, Lori, 16, and Larry, 13, before taking his own life Saturday morning, police said. Also dead was a small red-haired dog.

Jerry G. Jones, who owned the company until he sold it to Galloway in April, said Galloway felt the pressures of ownership.

Filipino march supports U.S.

ANGELES, Philippines (UPI) — About 15,000 Filipinos, some carrying signs saying "Thank you President Reagan" and led by the mother of slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino, marched Sunday in a rare show of support for the United States.

The marchers were peaceful, many wearing yellow T-shirts, ribbons and headbands. Bar girls and other residents tossed confetti as the parade wound through Angeles, a town of bars and brothels near Clark Air Base, a key U.S. facility.

Marching from a Catholic church in Angeles, 60 miles north of Manila, the protesters gathered in a sports center for a rally where speakers urged Marcos to revive the country's U.S.-style, 1935 constitution.

Cosmonauts prepare to land

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet cosmonauts are simulating Earth's gravity by wearing a special vacuum suit to prepare for their return home after nearly five months of orbiting in the Salyut 7 space station, Tass said Sunday.

The official Soviet news agency did not say when the men, who blasted off June 27, would return to earth, but Western experts have predicted they will re-enter the atmosphere during the night late this week, possibly Thursday.

Cosmonauts Vladimir Lyakhov and Alexander Alexandrov are taking turns putting on a special pneumatic vacuum suit called a "chibis," which through differential pressure simulates the Earth's gravity on the body, Tass said.

Rebels kill 17 Salvadorans

By United Press International

Salvadoran leftist rebels killed 17 government troops and wounded 17 others in heavy attacks Sunday on security forces in northern El Salvador, where the army is waging its latest counter-insurgency drive.

An army spokesman said rebels driven Saturday from the town of Villa Flores in Cabanas province, 30 miles northeast of San Salvador, returned Sunday and made a surprise attack on army units.

There was no immediate report on casualties Sunday in Villa Flores. Four rebels and one civilian died in the fighting Saturday, while government losses reached six troops, either killed or wounded, officers said.

Cafe bomb hurts 30 in Paris

PARIS (UPI) -- One of two men on a motorcycle hurled a terrorist bomb into a packed Jewish-owned restaurant on the edge of Paris Sunday, slightly injuring 30 diners, including several children.

"It was a gratuitous terrorist act, perhaps connected with events in Lebanon," restaurant owner Robert Taieb speculated. "Through my establishment, someone has tried to terrorize public opinion."

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the attack.

None of the 30 injured people were hurt seriously but the blast shortly after midnight local time blew out windows and brought down part of the roof at the L'Oree du Bois restaurant on the edge of the Bois de Boulogne park.

A Tunisian-born Jew, Taieb recalled other similar incidents in Paris, including the Aug. 9, 1982, attack in which two men opened fire at Jo Goldenberg's restaurant in the heart of Paris' Jewish quarter.

Taieb said he had no particular connection to Jewish groups or to Israel. "There are also Lebanese, Iranians, extreme-left and extreme-right people who come here. All that means nothing, we are apolitical," he said.

Police would not speculate on whether the attack could be connected to last Thursday's French air raid against pro-Iranian guerrillas in east Lebanon, for which Iran threatened France with reprisals.

Shaw-Eash

HAMMETT — Tely Dean Shaw and Michael David Eash were married Nov. 12 at the Hammett Community Church.

The bride is the daughter of Jan Castle-of-Picabo and Fred Shaw of Boise. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Eash of Hammett.

The Rev. Peter Wetendorf officiated. The bride's mother provided the music.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of organza featuring long sleeves and a ruffled neckline. She carried a bouquet of silk roses, carnations and rose buds.

Michelle Southwick of Glenns Ferry was maid of honor. Mary Joe Eash, sister of the groom; Tina Shaw, sister of the bride, and Linda Fry of Hammett were bridesmaids. Sadie Shaw, sister of the bride, was the flower girl.

Steven Landis of Boise was best man. David Snyder of Bruneau, Ronald Landis and Eugene Hooley, both of Hammett, ushered. Benjamin Walters of Hammett, was ringbearer.

A reception and luncheon were held at the Indian Mennonite Church. Lisa Southwick was the guestbook attendant.

The bride, a graduate of Glenns Ferry High School, is employed by Heath Electronics. The groom, a graduate of the Western Mennonite School in Salem, Ore., is employed by his uncle on ranches in Bruneau and Indian Cove.

Following a trip to the West Coast, the couple is living in Indian Cove.

Nesheim-Thackeray

JEROME — Marta Lou Nesheim and James Kent Thackeray were married July 30 at Barnabas Episcopal Church in Bainbridge Island, Wash.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mr. George W. Nesheim of Bainbridge Isand and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Thackeray of Jerome.

The Rev. David Heaney of St. Barnabas and the Rev. Donald Conger of St. Cecelia's Catholic Church officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length gown featuring leg-of-mutton sleeves and a yoke of lace.

Leslie Nesheim, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Nancy Nesheim, Elizabeth Stinson of Kent, Wash., and Kristine Powell of Richland, Wash., sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Betsy Kearney and Diane Johansson, both of Seattle, were candlelighters.

Tom Thackeray of Jerome was best man for his brother. Bob Thackeray of Wendell, brother of the groom; David Nesheim of Bainbridge Island, brother of the bride, and Scot Nelson of Jerome were groomsmen.

Special guest was Mrs. Sarah Nesheim, grandmother of the bride.

A reception was held after the ceremony followed by a buffet at the home of the bride's parents. The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner.

A reception was held Aug. 20 in Jerome. Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Thackery of Casa Grande, Ariz., grandparents of the groom, were special guests. Sherry Thackeray of Wendell and Lonna Nelson of Jerome served. Jean Nelson of Fort Collins, Colo., received gifts and Jane Klaas of Jerome attended the guestbook.

The bride, a graduate of Western Washington University, is employed by the McCall-Donnelly School District as a kindergarten teacher. The groom, a graduate of Jerome High School and Idaho State University, is employed by the Idaho Department of Employment.

After a trip to Hawaii, the couple is living in McCall.

Workaholic can be returned to life

By BOB KEIM
United Press International

Getting a workaholic to realize there is life outside of the office may be difficult, but researchers say it's possible with a little planning. And the results could make life at home better for everyone.

A workaholic can have a so-called normal or happy home life, says Penn State University Assistant Prof. Ann Crouter.

"What it requires is that the family and workaholic both compromise," she said in an interview.

"What is often a good idea is that the family set aside certain times during the week when they will do things as a family."

The family must stress the importance of the agreed-upon time.

"The only way it will work is if the person knows they will be disappointing people if they don't confirm."

Ms. Crouter said a workaholic is "someone who puts in an inordinate amount of time and energy at work at the expense of other aspects of their life."

Most are driven by a desire to succeed, but some fear they will lose their jobs if they do not work long hours, she said.

"You can't really expect a workaholic to change completely, so you should keep your expectations reasonable."

Other methods designed to reduce the time a workaholic spends on the job include moving farther away from the office.

Ms. Crouter said this method is effective in keeping people from just "running over to the office" but it isn't successful with people who bring work home.

Another good strategy is taking weekends and vacations with the family to a place where the workaholic can escape the telephone, she said.

Some research suggests, "Men who have concentrated solely on their work in the early parts of their career ... reach a point in mid-life where they regret doing this," Ms. Crouter said. "Some people do recognize the cost of this pattern."

ROYAL ROMANCE

Q. Did Prince Philip of England propose marriage to Queen Elizabeth II? Or vice versa?

A. That's a royal secret. But the Englanders who know more than we — and care more — think she took the initiative.

Q. Do any people eat bats?

A. Many do. In some South Pacific island restaurants, you can buy a bat dinner — bon appetit — for about $25.

Q. Is there any tissue in the human body that has no blood supply of its own?

A. One. Cartilage.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There can be a considerable amount of nervous tension today. Remain cheerful. Rise above whatever may test your patience. Sit back and think objectively about that troubling situation.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be careful and avoid possible accidents. Don't make any undue comments to others. Home is your best bet in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Postpone any possibly poor investments. Study your property, and see how it can be improved. Rest up tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take control of yourself so that you can achieve all you set out to do. Remain calm, cool and collected. Don't argue.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be objective about upsetting worries you may have. Improve your relationship. Help a devoted one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't get upset or discouraged if a friend breaks a promise. Don't be forceful at gaining your aims. Tact turns the trick.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Follow the lead of one in power, or you may lose out. Solve problems at work wisely. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be open minded, but don't commit yourself to anything as yet. Don't follow hunches; they may get you into trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be kind to the one you love. Carry through with a job he or she likes. Don't argue over a large bill.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Pay little attention to fickle partners. Remain stable. Take in stride a distressing matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You will gain from showing gratitude for big favors. Avoid fellow workers who like to ridicule you. Keep busy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Amuse yourself, but don't spend too much money. Concentrate on pleasing a loved one. Take no risks on credit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Bring harmony into your home where conditions are difficult. Put off entertaining there. Do you work precisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one who can easily understand problems of others and how best to solve them. A lawyer, doctor, psychologist or social worker is in the making. Religion is important. Permit to participate in sports.

Peace of mind from runaway hotline

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing your column of Nov. 17, 1981, with a request that you please run it again. It changed our lives.

— ALSO GRATEFUL IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ALSO: With pleasure:

DEAR ABBY: Our problem daughter, not quite 17, ran away from home 14 months ago. She had been giving us a rough time for about a year — skipping school, staying out late and lying to us constantly. After a noisy scene, she stormed out of the house with only the clothes on her back. We didn't have a clue as to where she went.

Only a parent who has lived through this kind of nightmare can realize what we went through. After a year of heartaches and sleepless nights, we were told by the police to give up and assume she was dead. But parents never give up. We continued to search and hope and pray that she'd return to us one day.

Well, our prayers were answered when, out of the blue, we received a telephone call from someone who said he was a volunteer with Runaway Hotline (formerly Operation Peace of Mind) in Houston. (We live in Michigan.) We were told that our daughter had read of the toll-free number in "Dear Abby" and she wanted to let us know that she was well and happy in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.! The volunteer said our daughter would call him again on the following morning in case we had a message for her.

We told him we would welcome a collect call from her. Sure enough, she called us the next day! She sounded wonderful and said she was working and was going to night school to finish her education. This story has a happy ending. Our daughter is coming for Christmas!

Abby, will you please publish that toll-free number again so other runaway kids can establish communications with their families? Our daughter said that she had seen your column with the number posted near telephones where runaways hang out.

We will never be able to thank you enough for giving us the happiest holiday we've ever had!

— GRATEFUL IN MICHIGAN

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure. Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. If in Texas, use this number: 1-800-392-3352.

An operator will take your call and telephone your parents anywhere in the United States with a message from you. There will be no lecturing or recriminations. Your call will not be traced. And only one question will be asked: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can get it, free. I repeat, no attempt will be made to contact you or bring you back home — regardless of your age.

If you are a runaway, I beg you to forget the past and send a message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight and so will you. And you will all have the best holiday season you've had in years. God bless you.

— ABBY

P.S. Runaway Hotline was established 10 years ago by a handful of public-spirited volunteers with the support of the governor of Texas. To date it has placed over 600,000 calls from runaways, assuring their families that they are OK. Beautiful!

'Dirtiest' organizing top liars

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The nation's self-proclaimed top "dirty old man" is quitting to organize America's liars — if you can believe his news release, that is.

Robert Quarles, of Indianapolis, said he will resign as head of the Society of Dirty Old Men in January and help organize the United States Liars Association.

Quarles said in a statement that under his leadership SDOM celebrated the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment — a "successful campaign to keep women in their places (barefoot, pregnant and in the kitchen.)."

But Quarles said the USLA will be an equal opportunity group.

"Women, as you know, are very good liars. Their reputation in lying goes all the way back to the Garden of Eden," he said.

The USLA will have voting and honorary members, the latter limited to 25 politicians and bureaucrats a year.

An honorary membership will go to any public official who "misleads, misappropriates, misbehaves and gets away with it," Quarles said.

The honorary membership will be replaced by a "Horrible Liar" award if the official is convicted in court.

He said he wants to locate the best liar in all 50 states and subsequently the nation's best liar.

The 50 best lies will be published yearly "so next year's entrants will have to come up with more original, different, bigger and better lies."

"Politicians and bureaucrats will not be allowed to compete in these events, due to their already vast experience," Quarles said.

Police issue alert for thief

JESSUP, Md. (UPI) — Police issued a nationwide alert Sunday for a trucker believed to have stolen 40,000 pounds of frozen turkeys, Maryland State Police said.

Trooper Wayne Jirsa said a warrant was issued for Robert Cohen, 43, of Denver, charging him with stealing the birds and the truck they were riding in.

Jersa said Cohen drove for On-time Trucking of Omaha, Neb., which reported the turkeys did not arrive at their destination in Pennsylvania.

Police said 15 birds were recovered from truckers who purchased them.

Garth Davis, general manager of the Truckers Inn in Jessup, said his security staff was monitoring CB radio conversations Saturday and overheard a driver's plan to sell the birds and report them stolen.

"It's pretty rare for a driver to sell most of his load, particularly when it's not his," Davis said. Davis said the trucker apparently sold as many as 100 birds, 22-pounders at $6 each, to other truck drivers.

First lady flies to visit mother

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First lady Nancy Reagan flew to Arizona Sunday to visit her ailing mother, Edith Davis.

Sheila Tate, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, said the first lady planned to remain in Phoenix until today or Tuesday, then make a stop in Los Angeles before heading to the Reagans' Santa Barbara, Calif., ranch Wednesday morning.

The president, who is scheduled to fly west Wednesday morning, and Mrs. Reagan will spend Thanksgiving with family members at the ranch and return to Washington Sunday.

Spring at Hailey new resort site

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

HAILEY — German investors are planning to build a multi-million-dollar resort around a natural hot spring near Hailey.

The development, which includes a 150-room hotel, 25 homes, several lakes and a ranch, is being mapped on 1,780 acres in the Democrat Gulch area about 1½ miles west of the city.

The centerpiece of the project, a European-style health spa at the hotel, will take advantage of the mineral waters from the hot springs. It will rise at the same site as the Hailey Hot Springs Hotel, a 19th Century refuge for the wealthy that burned in 1899 and was never rebuilt.

Hailey's beauty, its air quality and the Wood River Valley's tie to the West German town of Tergensee led to the plan, says Karsten Gerhardt, spokesman for an investment group headed by German land developer Hans Haensel.

"Hailey has offered very beautiful and very good air and, in addition, we can have that hot water, which can offer you the health treatment," said Gerhardt last week.

Henry, who had been thinking about it for five years said the idea for the health spa came from his mining partner, Dan Henry of Ketchum, who also has been instrumental in forging a sister-city relationship between Ketchum and Tegernsee.

Henry, who winters in Tegernsee, mentioned the possibility to Haensel, and the German developer became the main investor in the development firm, the Tegernseee Land and Cattle Co. Interested parties also include the head of a German hotel group.

Architect James McLaughlin, whose Ketchum firm is designing the resort, said Friday the hotel will be built in the Victorian style of architecture, recalling its predecessor.

"There are a few signs of the old hotel, but not very much" still at the site, he said.

At the same time, the spa will tap the earth's energy, he said.

"We will fully develop the hot springs for hot pools and mineral baths, and we're hoping the geothermal springs that are on the property can be developed for heating and for further geothermal use," he said.

The hotel itself will be patterned after a European spa — a healthy style of luxury.

"The European health spa concept is a very relaxed, luxurious concept as opposed to the health club that Americans are used to with weight rooms and racquetball and those sorts of things," McLaughlin says.

Each guest has an individual exercise plan designed by staff technicians and, doctors, says Gerhardt.

"The Germans, they make up a

Tough going

Able discover some woes of handicapped

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — No second thoughts are given to such simple tasks as walking up an incline or weaving between people at a crowded shopping center.

But in a wheelchair, the incline becomes a mountain and the human traffic is transformed into moving barriers.

By using a special type of obstacle course, two Twin Falls companies and a handicapped group joined together Saturday to offer a glimpse of what it is like to be disabled.

Norco medical supplies and Home Health Professionals sponsored a "Handicapped Awareness" display at the Blue Lakes Mall. Shoppers were invited to sit in a wheelchair, work their way through pylons, up a slope, over a thick rug and through a short maze.

Children and adults took advantage, heaving up the incline and clumsily through the course. The test was harder than expected.

After completing the course, 15-year-old Shauna Wheeler of Twin Falls said she didn't realize how hard it was for handicapped people.

With the display, the businesses wanted to show the rehabilitation potential for handicapped people, said Denise Mayes, the administrator of Home Health, which offers in-home health and rehabilitation care.

Also on hand to answer questions were a group of persons to whom wheelchairs are a part of life. They were members of the new Handicapped in Motion group, whose purpose is to promote awareness about the handicapped and break down some of the barriers, said Kelly Buckland of Twin Falls.

Karleena Hills, a member of the group from Jerome, was an impressive illustration of someone who had broken through. Born with cerebral palsy, Hills has little use of her hands. But, with a device strapped to her head, she paints, is a bookkeeper and types.

"We want to make Twin Falls an easier place to live in for the handicapped," Hills said.

Another group member, Mary Last of Jerome, said that more children than adults had asked questions Saturday about what it was like to move around in a wheelchair.

"That's where you need to start. If the kids are aware, they help their parents to become aware," said Last, who teaches home-bound children.

One of the goals of the new group is to make buildings in Twin Falls more accessible to the handicapped, Buckland said. They are planning more activities that promote awareness of the handicapped and the problems they face, he added.

The display also included a blood pressure check and an exhibit of medical equipment.

Holiday greetings

Mail deadline arriving soon

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Now may seem a little early to be thinking about shopping for Christmas presents, much less mailing them.

But if you are sending packages to the Mideast, it is already too late to mail them and expect delivery by Christmas, says post office spokesman Steve Hurd.

The latest date to insure a Dec. 25 delivery for other packages going overseas is Nov. 25, he says. But it's never too early to mail any Christmas parcel, the spokesman says.

"It's a good idea to get them into the mail now to insure careful handling and delivery on time," he says. And it's also a good way to avoid the long lines often seen at post office windows in the three weeks before Christmas.

Hurd says the post office expects to handle more mail this holiday season than it has in recent years, because people have a little more money to spend this year.

That may mean some post office workers put in longer hours, but there are no plans to hire extra workers in the Twin Falls area, Hurd says.

He also recommends that Christmas cards be mailed early. Cards with overseas addresses should be mailed by Dec. 5, and United States mail needs to be sent no later than Dec. 20.

And it wouldn't be Christmas if mailers of over-sized cards did not forget to add extra postage, he says. The postal service generally delivers them anyway with money-due notices, but the mailer's best bet for on-time delivery is to ask at the post office if extra postage is required, he says.

Twin Falls postmaster Lorenzo Palagi says mailers should also be sure to wrap packages properly to insure safe, early delivery.

Palagi recommends:

- Address packages completely and use the right zip code.
- Use a sturdy container such as a corrugated box for most items.
- Cushion each item in the container using crumpled or rolled newspapers, plastic chips, plastic inserts or fiberboard inserts.
- Seal the parcel with reinforced filament strapping tape.
- Don't use wrapping paper to cover old addresses. Simply cross the old address out and clearly print the new address on one side of the package.

Rail land requested for trails

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The state Department of Transportation went to federal court on Friday to try and obtain 985 acres of abandoned railroad lands in Blaine and Camas counties.

Keith Green, state highway administrator, says his agency wants most of the railroad right-of-way land to widen portions of Idaho 75, U.S. 20, and U.S. 93. A small portion of the land, he says, would probably be turned over to Blaine County officials for bike and horse trails.

The land was orginally granted to the Oregon Short Line Railroad Co. and the Union Pacific Railroad across which to build their tracks. The narrow strips of land vary in width between 100 and 200 feet, Green says.

In recent years, the railroad lines have been abandoned, although some are used for temporary storage of empty cars, says Green.

The two railroad companies say the federal grant lands still belong to them, and are worth $5.5 million dollars, according to court briefs. Green says that the land should be turned over to the state for free, and that the railroads have no claim to them once they stop using it for train service.

"The land was given to the railroads free of charge," Green says. "When they abandon it, do they still have anything left to sell to us?"

Bob Rosso, a Blaine County Recreation District board member, says the lawsuit "is very important to us."

Rosso says Blaine County bikers are forced to ride on congested highways that pose numerous hazards.

"The valley is growing a lot and it is a very dangerous place to ride," Rosso said. "Even the experienced bikers have had confrontations with motorists. We need to get the bike path entirely off of the highway to be safe."

If the judge rules in favor of the state, Rosso says, the county may

Vague city codes confuse council

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Vague city codes about wine and beer licenses have confused the Wendell City Council and the city clerk.

At the council meeting Thursday, Clerk June Holm reported that Galen Dance will be leasing Parr's Food Center on Dec. 1 and wants the store's beer licenses transferred to his name until he buys a new license in January.

City councilman Mike Wetzstein, reading the city code book, reported that city licenses are not transferable even though state and county licenses are.

This raised the question about the license of Lemme's Mini Mart, which was transferred to new owners in July. Also, council members questioned the license of the Pizza Palace, which changed hands recently but is still operating on the license of the former owner.

Upon further reading of the city code, it was not made clear to anyone whether or not new operators could legally use the existing license. It also did not clarify whose responsibility it is to make sure the license is valid.

For example, distributors may not deliver to a business that does not have a license. Should they withhold delivery until a new owner gets a new license, council debated, or is it the city's duty to follow through on getting new licenses when a business changes owners.

Council members also asked if the city has a right to require a new license if the former owner allows a new owner to use his (the former owner's) license. Would it make a difference if the business did or did not change it's name? These questions were discussed but the answers remained unclear.

"In the legal sense of the word, I don't know who does what," Holm said.

"I am confused on it."

Mayor Otto Lemke said city requirements for licenses should be the same as state and county regulations.

"I say you ought to make it transferable," he said, adding that "they (state and county regulations) change things so much you can't keep up with them."

Councilman Dick Beck agreed the city licenses should be transferable, saying "If the state and county do it, the city should."

The council made no decision what the city will do about these beer and wine license questions.

Council members discussed passing an ordinance to clarify city policy but did not make a motion.

According to Holm, she and the council will study the code book further and consult city attorney Cecil Hobdey on the matters to determine what will be done.

In other business:

- The council voted to allow Pioneer Body and Paint to have a new water hookup without another monthly service charge. The hook-up for a car wash facility could be routed to be connected with the line they are now using, but, the owners said, it would be easier to make a new hook-up.

Council said a hook-up fee will be charged and the monthly rate will be adjusted according to how much water the business uses.

- Council members voted to distribute bonus checks to city employees according to the city budget. They also decided to have the annual city employees' Christmas at Cactus Pete's in Jackpot, Nev., at a date to be determined later.

Twin Falls council to consider rezone

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will hold a public hearing tonight on a rezone application by Elbert Davis for property located at 465 Locust Street North.

Following the hearing, the council will consider "new information" concerning pesticide storage to be presented by Edna Rains, who lives in the city's Buena Vista neighborhood.

The rezone application by Davis would allow a residential dwelling to be converted to a professional office.

The lot in question lies between KCIR Radio at the corner of Filer Avenue, and a pre-school off Locust Street to the south. Davis plans to connect the Locust Avenue lot to a lot off Filer Avenue to the north that is occupied by Ag-Land Mortgage and Real Estate, a business he owns.

The city's planning and zoning commission unanimously recommended approval of the rezone Oct. 25. They also granted a special-use permit for the professional office, pending approval of the rezone by the council.

The presentation by Rains follows a council decision in October against the adoption of zoning regulations effecting the storage of pesticides.

A proposal for such an ordinance was submitted to the council in the spring by Rains.

Police think arrests may solve burglaries

TWIN FALLS — The arrest this weekend of two Filer brothers and a Buhl man may close the books on about a half a dozen burglaries committed in Twin Falls County in the past month, according to Buhl Police Chief Dave Hartway.

His department has been investigating the crimes along with the Twin Falls County sheriff and Filer police.

The investigation by the three agencies focused on seven burglaries of a "common pattern," as well as fencing activity, said Dennis Voorhees, the Twin Falls County deputy prosecutor. The investigation is continuing and there could be more arrests of "accessories," he said.

Jerry Dale Hirsbrunner, 19, of Filer was arraigned Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court for two burglaries. Hirsbrunner and his brother Jack, also of Filer, are suspected of breaking into The Club Bar and Acme Tool Co. in Filer on Nov. 13, according to the complaint filed with the court.

Jerry Hirsbrunner turned himself in to Filer police Thursday. His brother was arrested that same day in Ada County while driving a truck containing some of the stolen tools, the complaint states.

A warrant has been filed charging Jack Hirsbrunner with the burglaries. He is being held in Boise, but will be returned to face the charges, said Filer Police Chief Donald Barkley. Jerry Hirsbrunner is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail.

Keith Nevil, 26, of Route 3, Buhl was arrested Friday night for allegedly burglarizing the Lincoln Courts Senior Center in Filer last summer and more recently, the Country Corner Store in Buhl, where more than $1,000 in merchandise was stolen, Hartway said. Nevil is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

"The arrests will clear up about four or five if not more (burglaries)," Hartway said. Also, the three men were allegedly involved in burglaries in Boise and the city of Twin Falls.

Hartway added that a high percentage of the stolen goods will be recovered.

Moscow may ignore attendance rule

MOSCOW (UPI) — The chairman of the Moscow School Board says the district may ignore Idaho's 90 percent attendance rule, which is set to begin next fall.

"I'm kind of bull-headed anyway," Chairman Craig Ladwig said last week. "If I can convince enough people, we may take a fly and let 'em take us to court."

schedule for you, and you can keep it or leave it, but, if you keep it, it's very good for your health and your conditions," the representative says.

The hotel will hire medics and chefs from the Continent to complete the European atmosphere. It also will contain shops to pamper the guests.

Called the Hailey Hot Springs Ranch, the development also will double the size of an existing lake, and create three or four smaller lakes. Other land at the complex will be reserved for horseback riding, cross country skiing, running, tennis and other outdoors sports, McLaughlin said.

Developers also are planning to construct a small community of 25 homes on lots of at least 10 acres each near the lakes. A large residential complex is not in the plans, said Gerhardt and McLaughlin.

Finally, a working farm will raise beefalo — a cross between beef cattle and buffalo — as well as horses, other livestock and crops, Gerhardt said. A Bellevue area resident, Mike Ivie, will supply the exotic breeding stock, he said. Some of the ranch's production, such as beef and vegetables, may be served in the hotel's restaurant.

Much of the planning revolves around the potential for geothermal energy, McLaughlin said.

"We're just in the process now of evaluating just what we have in terms of geothermal (energy)," he said.

Estimates for the development have not been released, but McLaughlin said it undoubtedly will cost several million dollars.

Principals in the Tegernsee Land and Cattle Co. which is developing the project, hope to start construction next summer and do the project in stages. Completing Hailey Hot Springs Ranch could take two to three years, the architect said.

They came to Hailey early in November to survey the site. Through McLaughlin and Gerhardt, they are seeking several zoning changes needed to put the plan in motion from the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission.

obtain a 20-foot wide swath of right of way for free.

About half the right of way would be converted into a bike path, with the remainder split between horse and pedestrian paths, Rosso says.

Green says he has no problems with the county plan.

"We will work with the them (county officials) in providing enough land for recreational use," he said."

But Green added that only about half the railroad right-of-way lands were deeded by federal grants. The rest of these lands were obtained through private purchases. The state must pay a fair market price to obtain any of these lands, Green says.

Magichords, guest quartets please audience of all ages

By WILLETTA WARBERG
Times-News music critic

TWIN FALLS — Good harmonizing was heard Friday evening at the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium as the barbershop singers, the Magichords, celebrated their 18th annual appearance.

A large audience of all ages seemed pleasured by this part-singing, formerly practiced only in barbershops.

Close to 50 men and boys combined voices to render familiar songs with diminished seventh, dominant seventh and augmented sixth chords and triads.

The program opened with the groups' 1983 theme song, "I Have a Song to Sing." For over an hour, thereafter, under the fine direction of Bob Cochrane, the Magichords sang arrangements of many well-known songs, some of which were "Coney Island Washboard," "Baby, Won't You Please Come Home," "Girl of My Dreams," and "I'm Looking for a Girl Named Mary."

All voices were balanced and matched. The singing was on a professional level which Magic Valley may be proud of.

Interspersed in the first half of the mostly-chorus program, the Magichords' quartet engaged the audience with fine interpretations of "I've Got Something to Write the Folks About Now," "Hang on the Bell, Nellie," "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home" and "I Wanna Sing, Not Dance."

Just before intermission, the Magic Tones quartet from

A review

Burley grabbed the spotlight. Their harmonization of an "Eyetalian" opera Rigoletto piece "played by Verdi," was probably the best and most entertaining song for the evening.

After intermission, the Magic Valley barbershop quartet, "The Common Taters," entertained. These men are a lively four.

The international barbershop competition winners for 1982 — the Classic Collection from Denver, Colo. — presented many common songs. They are talented!

Finally came the finale which joined the chorus and quartets in song.

Barbershop music can be good music and many have enjoyed performing it and many have enjoyed listening to it since its origination in the 16th century when it developed while customers waited their turns in barbers' chairs around the world.

Almost two hours of harmonizing and sliding into chords of well-known songs may be a challenge to the interpreters and possibly quite monotonous for many listeners.

For this reviewer, it seemed that the performers became carried away with themselves and their own sounds and didn't know when to stop. One-and-a-half hours would have been enough to barely short the saturation point.

Obituaries

Somebody needs you

"Somebody Needs You," a public-service column that appears weekly in The Times-News, is designed to match those in the community who need volunteer help with those who can provide it.

Volunteers are needed to help with Christmas baskets and toy drives throughout Magic Valley. Contact Karen Mack 733-9554, extension 334.

We need individuals and families to "Adopt a Friend." Spend a few hours each month visiting with a shut-in or a lonely senior. Contact Karen Mack at 733-9554, extension 334.

More volunteers are needed who would be willing to drive seniors who cannot drive to doctor or hospital appointments. If you would be willing to do this with 24 hours' notice, please call Bruce Bennett at 733-9554.

Volunteers are needed to help with handicapped children getting to and from the Child Development Center, especially from the Jerome area. If you can help, contact the Child Development Center at 734-9770.

Area libraries need help in a variety of ways. To find out how you can assist, contact the Magic Valley Volunteer Bureau — 733-9554, extension 334.

Toys, cash and canned food items are needed for Christmas toy and food baskets for the Kimberly, Hansen and Murtaugh areas. To arrange for contribution pick-up, call Tom and Eva Lewis at 423-4966, or Karen Mack at 423-4200.

If your organization needs a volunteer, call Bruce Bennett at the College of Southern Idaho at 733-9554, extension 338, to have it appear in this column.

ISU makes I-AA football playoffs

By United Press International
and The Times-News

POCATELLO — Idaho State University football Coach Jim Koetter was naturally pleased Sunday with the surprise announcement that his club would host Big Sky Conference champion Nevada-Reno in an NCAA Division I-AA playoff game here Saturday.

But Nevada-Reno Coach Chris Ault was admittedly upset that winning the Big Sky Conference championship, including a 37-16 victory over the Bengals Oct. 1, didn't qualify UNR for the home-field advantage in the first round of the Division I-AA playoffs.

"The way were looking at it, the conference championship doesn't mean that much, apparently," said Ault.

Koetter, however, wasn't complaining about anything.

"I'm very grateful to be in the playoffs," Koetter said. "I am also very grateful to host the playoffs."

Ault indicated the decision might be just the thing to fire up the Wolf Pack.

"I'll guarantee you this: were going to be ready for them," he said.

The winner of the first-round matchup will have the home-field advantage in the following game against Southland Conference champion North Texas State. Ault said he intends for that game to be played in Reno, not Pocatello.

Koetter said he was thrilled at the opportunity to play Reno again, "even though we would rather play someone we haven't played before."

"But it helps us in preparation because we have played Reno before," the coach said.

The playoff spot is only the second awarded the Bengals in the school's history. Idaho State defeated Eastern Kentucky in the 1981 Pioneer Bowl in the I-AA national championship contest.

ISU finished second in the conference this year with an overall 8-3 record and a 5-2 tally in conference action.

Reno finished with a 6-1 conference mark and went 7-4 on the season.

Kickoff time in the Minidome is set for 7:30 p.m.

Reserve tickets for the playoff game would go on sale to the public Wednesday for $9 and $7, with end zone seats available for $4.

Koetter said the selection of Pocatello for the game was based on the Minidome's 12,000-inside-seating capacity, which would provide more revenue than Nevada-Reno's facilities could muster. The Wolf Pack plays in 14,000-seat Mackay Stadium, a facility that dates from the 1930s but has been remodeled several times since.

Bengals host BSC champ Reno in 'Dome Saturday

Ault said the decision "was all money," but declined further comment on the matter.

"I'm still recovering from the shock of having to go to Idaho," he said.

The Bengals' 34-17 Big Sky Conference victory over Montana Saturday sealed the ISU playoff bid, but two games in the Southland Conference made it possible. In one, North Texas State won the conference championship with a 52-15 rout of Texas Arlington. Had the Eagles, who finished the season with a 8-3 mark, lost the league title and the automatic berth that goes with it to runner-up Northwest Louisiana, NTSU might have gotten an at-large berth ahead of the Bengals.

Then the Indians, who could have finished the season with a 9-2 record with a victory over Northwest Louisiana Saturday night and thus made the playoffs ahead of ISU, lost that game 13-9 to finish 8-3. The Bengals got the nod by virtue of their two victories this season over Division I teams — Texas-El Paso and Cal State-Fullerton. Northeast Louisana did not play a Division I opponent this year.

In other NCAA Division I-AA first round playoff pairings:

- Eastern Illinois (9-2) will be at Indiana State, with the victor facing Southern Illinois (10-1).
- Colgate (8-3) will visit Western Carolina (8-2-1), with the winner playing at Holy Cross (9-1-1).
- Boston University (8-3) at Eastern Kentucky (7-2-1), with the victor traveling to Furman (9-1-1).

Semifinals will be played Dec. 10 with the championship being decided Dec. 17 at Charleston S.C.

Reno completed its first-ever Big Sky championship season with a convincing 33-3 crushing of Montana State on Saturday night.

In the only other Big Sky game Saturday, Idaho beat Boise State 45-24 at home — giving the Vandals an 8-3 record.

Theoretically, both Idaho and Idaho State were in the running for a Division I-AA at-large playoff berth. But Vandal Coach Dennis Erickson sized it up perfectly, saying, "Our chances are slim and none after ISU's win."

"Idaho State has two wins over major college opponents and they also beat us. "So, I would assume they (the selection committee) will take the Bengals," Erickson said.

But his Vandals went out with a bang Saturday night as senior quarterback Ken Hobart passed for 440 yards and four touchdowns and he ran for a fifth score in leading Idaho to its win over in-state rival Boise State.

"Ken was on target tonight. I think that was his best performance this year. He really rose to the occasion. He did all the things he can. There's no question in my mind that he is one of the best college quarterbacks in the country," Erickson said.

Hobart finished the year with 3,618 passing yards and 32 touchdowns, plus another 182 yards rushing and five more TDS. For his career at Idaho, Hobart has passed for 9,300 yards and rushed for another 1,826 — becoming only the second collegiate player ever to top the 10,000-yard mark in total offense.

Freshman quarterback Hazsen Choates led Boise State, passing for 146 yards and rushing for another 121 yards and two touchdowns. And running back Rodney Webster added 86 yards rushing, giving him 1,038 yards this season.

Quarterback Eric Beavers, another freshman, passed for two touchdowns and Tony Zendejas kicked four field goals in powering Reno to its Big Sky win over Montana State.

The playoff-bound Wolf Pack also got 109 yards rushing from Anthony Corley to keep the Bobcats at bay, making Corley the third Big Sky running back this fall with more than 1,000 yards rushing.

The other 1,000-yard running back is Reno's Otto Kelly, which is also a Big Sky first. No league team has ever had two men from the same backfield reach that plateau in the same season.

Zendejas' four field goals gave him 106 points for the season — breaking the team, Big Sky and Division I-AA season scoring record of 104 points he set last year. Zendejas also has a record 300 career points kicking.

Idaho State gave up its normal passing show for a running game at Montana, and Wade Wilhite rushed for 106 yards and the game-winning touchdown on a 13-yard scamper in leading the Bengals.

Chris Cawdery and Ron Gilder also scored on the ground for ISU, and safety John Berry got the fourth Bengal TD on a 38-yard interception return.

Both Montana TDs came through the air, on receptions by Brian Salonen and Brad Dantic.

Although Northern Arizona was never really in the game at Fresno, Calif., Lumberjack wide receiver Pete Madley grabbed a share of the spotlight.

Mandley scored one of NAU's touchdowns on an 85-yard punt return. And Mandley ended his career with 1,980 yards in kickoff returns and 5,911 yards in all purpose rushing, both Division I-AA records.

Weber State almost pulled it off at Texas-El Paso, but the Wildcats couldn't get the ball back the one more time they needed as the Miners ended a 10-game losing streak.

Weber State quarterback Tim Bernal led the belated Wildcat comeback, scoring twice in the fourth quarter on one-yard runs after UTEP led 40-20. Bernal also passed for 370 yards and three more TDs, but four

Hail Mary play saves Falcons

By DAVID MOFFIT
United Press International

ATLANTA — The Atlanta Falcons stole a page from their past Sunday.

Running out of time, both in the game and in the division race, the Falcons, as they did numerous times back when they were playoff contenders, turned to what is jokingly called a "Hail Mary" play, a last-second, desperation aerial bomb — and hit the target for a dramatic 28-24 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Billy "White Shoes" Johnson got up off the ground to catch a deflected 47-yard pass from Steve Bartkowski as time ran out to keep the Falcons alive in the NFC West, where they trail San Francisco and the Los Angeles Rams by two games with four to play.

"Stacey (Bailey, another Falcons' wide receiver) tipped the ball," said Johnson. "I had slippped down, but was able to get up in time to catch the tip. I started running to the wide side of the field, looking for an opening in the end zone. I picked up a couple of blocks that got me there."

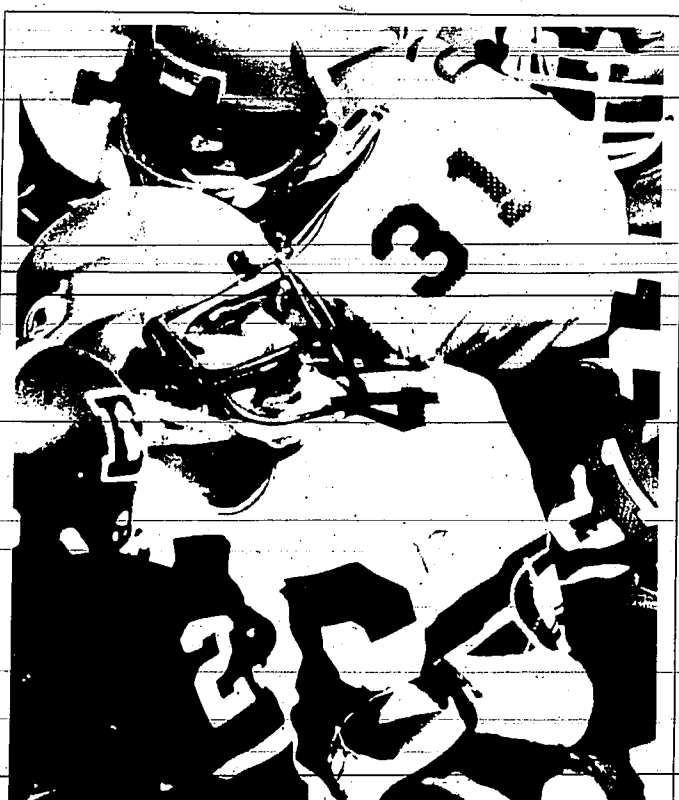

San Francisco defensive back Dwight Hicks said he lost the ball in the lights. "It had a high arc and I couldn't see it," said Hicks. "There was a big scramble. The ball popped out into White Shoes' hands.

"He started running around me," said Hicks. "I had him by the waist and we both fell to the ground when Bailey ran into us. I saw he ball if I can and, if not, try to tip it to one of my teammates."

"It all came down to one play," said 49ers' coach Bill Walsh. "It's a loss and that's all I've got to say."

The Falcons, on the verge of elimination from the playoffs, had fallen behind 24-21 with only 70 seconds left when San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana scored on an 11-yard run after finding his receivers covered.

Bartkowski moved the Falcons to the San Francisco 47 with seven seconds remaining. He then threw a desperation pass which was batted into the air by a group of 49ers near the goal-line. Johnson, who had slipped on the play, got up and caught the deflected ball on the 5-yard line and cut to his right, crossing the goal-line just as he was being tackled and just as time had expired.

Vikings alive after upset in Pittsburgh

More NFL — B5-6

PITTSBURGH — Lacking a number of key offensive players, the Minnesota Vikings used a "hunt-and-peck offense" Sunday to scratch their way to a 17-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The 6-6 Vikings snapped their own three-game losing streak as well as the 9-3 Steelers' seven-game winning streak behind Steve Dils' two touchdown passes and a 39-yard field goal by Benny Ricardo.

The Viking defense staved off Pittsburgh's fourth-quarter comeback bid from a 17-7 deficit. Pittsburgh's last ditch scoring drive, begun with 3:36 to go, ended with three straight incomplete passes from the Steelers' 37.

"We're a hunt-and-peck offense," said Minnesota coach Bud Grant. "We're not like theirs (Pittsburgh) where they came right out on us in the first series running the ball and said, 'Hey, stop us.' Our offense just isn't that strong."

But the Viking offense was effective, leaving both Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll and Grant slightly puzzled.

"If I could explain how a team plays with such intensity one week and not the next, I wouldn't have the gray hair that I do," Grant said.

Grant speculated the extra effort may have been a response to the Steelers' game opening touchdown drive.

"When you're in a fight, you've got to fight back, and after that first series, our guys came back with their noses a little bloodied," Grant said. "I wish I had something more profound to say but I don't."

Minnesota played without wide receiver Sammy White and running backs Ted Brown and Darrin Nelson.

"I was impressed by the fact that Minnesota had so many players out but decided to come in and play hard," Noll said. "We obviously didn't do our jobs. They ran on us, through us and around us."

Trailing 17-7 going into the final quarter, the Steelers, 9-3, pulled within 17-14 with a 96-yard drive capped by Cliff Stoudt's 4-yard keeper with 6:02 left.

Pittsburgh got the ball back with 3:36 to go when Rick Woods intercepted Dils and the Steelers drove from their own 15 to their 46. Stoudt was then sacked for a 9-yard loss and three straight incompletions ended Pittsburgh's comeback hopes as Minnesota ended a three-game losing streak.

Dils threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to Sam McCullum in the first quarter to tie the score 7-7.

After a dull and scoreless second period, Dils guided the Vikings, 6-6, to a 10-point third quarter. He capped a 5-play, 59-yard drive with a 6-yard scoring pass to Tony Galbreath 5:55 into the third quarter. About eight minutes later, Ricardo kicked his field goal to cap the Vikings' scoring.

Pittsburgh had opened the game with a 9-play, 62-yard scoring drive capped by Stoudt's 3-yard TD pass to Bennie Cunningham that gave Pittsburgh a 7-0 lead.

Dils completed 16-of-25 passes for 188 yards with two inteceptions.

Stoudt struggled for most of the game, completing just 13-of-30 passes for 167 yards. The Steelers running game also was ineffective against the Viking defense.

The game started out looking like it would be a high-scoring offensive affair. The Vikings followed the Steelers' game-opening touchdown drive with their own 79-yard drive, topped by McCullum's TD reception.

Then, the contest degenerated into a lackluster struggle for the remainder of the first half as poor play selection, mental mistakes and penalties resulted in one short series after another.

Valley's cowboys score well in Wilderness Circuit Rodeo

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Jerome cowboy Mickey Young scored another 75 Saturday to hold on to his lead in the bareback riding competition, while early calf roping leader Joe Sager turned in a 10.4-second performance for first place in the second go-round at the Wilderness Circuit Finals Rodeo.

No results from Sunday's final go-round were available at press time.

Behind Young, who is currently ranked second in the nation by the Professional rodeo Cowboys Association, Mark McKinley of Kimberly rode for 73 points and second place. Young led the bareback riding average after Saturday's go with 144 points.

The calf roping was dominated by Idahoans as well. Gooding roper Walt Park followed Sager's lead, posting a 10.7 followed by Dee Pickett of Caldwell with a time of 10.8.

In the calf roping competition, Park held a half-second lead after the second go over Lance Robinson of Farmington, Utah, who turned in a 22.5. Twin Falls' Puddin Payne was third in the average with 22.8.

Saddle bronc rider Dixon Hamilton from Wellsville, Utah, scored 74 for the second go-round honors. Behind him in a three-way tie for second are Butch Small of Dubois, Kent Cooper of Declo, and Sterling Wine of Ruby Valley, Nev., each with 72 points.

Cooper was the leader in the bareback riding average with a total of 144. Utah cowboys came out on top in the steer wrestling with Randee Munns of Garland, Utah, clocking a fast 6.5 for first place. Jack Hannum and Lonnie Hadley, both from Ogden, Utah, each posted 7.2, splitting second and third.

Wolf Hart of Pocatello led the steer wrestling average after Saturday with 14.9. Rob Juker of Buhl was in third place with 17.8.

Jim and Chad Brown of Elk Ridge, Utah, roped their steer in 9.8 to win the second go of team roping, followed by the father-son team of Cy and Jim Bob Eardley of Price, Utah, with 10.2. Declo's Les Nye and Rod Nelson took third with 10.5.

Nye and Nelson led the team roping average with a 24.7. Caldwell ropers Lee Woodbury and Pickett are second with 25.0, followed by Park and Kirk Webb of Jerome with 27.3 total.

Heber City, Utah's Jim Wright rode his bull for 77 points and first place Saturday. Second went to John Larson of Ephraim, Utah, with a 74. In the bullriding average, Larson and Russ Miller of St. Anthony were tied for first and second with total of 144 points each, followed by Monte Van Koman with 139.

In barrel racing, Suzanne Faucett of Fort Duschesche, Utah, took the first go-round of 17.98. Bonnie Gleed of Carbon City, Utah, was second with 18.60, and Homedale cowgirl Kay Davis clocked a 18.37 for third. Faucett paced the barrel racing average with 36.14, while Dina Shiner of Leadore was second with 36.44, followed by Davis with 36.93.

The rodeo features the top 15 contestants in each event from Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

Rams can do nothing right against Redskins

By United Press International

Los Angeles guard Dennis Harrah dove after an apparent fumble and dropped the ball. He grabbed it again and dropped it again. Finally, in a fit of frustration, he brought his leg back and swung his heavy foot at the ball. And missed.

That pretty sums up the kind of day the Rams had.

John Riggins scored three touchdowns and the Washington Redskins piled up 39 unanswered points on their way to a 42-20 thrashing of Los Angeles Sunday, keeping the defending Super Bowl champions in a tie with Dallas atop the NFC East at 10-2.

The Rams, riding the wave of their 36-13 drubbing of Atlanta Monday night, were shot down quickly and were outplayed in every aspect of the game.

"It seemed the Rams were up for us," Riggins said. "When the champs come into town you get up for them. But we have the ability to make a good football team look bad."

Washington coach Joe Gibbs put himself in the running for understatement of the year when he said, "I think this was our day.

"It seemed everything went our way. The defense, the offense and the special teams all played very well. This was our most solid performance of the year and it's probably the most solid overall performance since I've been here."

Despite the loss, the Rams remained tied for the lead in the NFC West at 7-5 as San Francisco also was beaten.

NFC East

"We're going to win our next four games, win the division and get a chance to play the Washington Redskins again," said Ram coach John Robinson. "There was somewhat of a euphoric feeling from Monday night that may have seduced us, but there are no excuses. We are frustrated and angry at ourselves. We apologize to our fans for playing so poorly. It won't happen again."

The Redskins dominated all aspects of the game as Riggins and quarterback Joe Theismann riddled the Los Angeles defense, and Mark Moseley kicked four field goals when the offense stalled.

Washington's defense buried the Rams, limiting Eric Dickerson, the NFL's leading rusher, to just 37 yards on 12 carries, by far the worst effort of his rookie year. The defense also throttled quarterback Vince Ferragamo until he was mercifully removed in the third quarter. He was intercepted four times, sacked twice, including once for a safety, and completed only eight passes in 20 attempts for 100 yards and one TD.

The Redskins did not have to punt until 1:29 remained in the game.

Los Angeles was held to only four yards in the second quarter — when the Redskins scored 19 points to put the game away.

Ferragamo was taken out of the game late in the third quarter after re-injuring the throwing hand he had cut open last week.

Theismann passed for 239 yards and one touchdown, completing 17-of-29 passes. He also ran the ball four times for 26 yards. Riggins led all rushers with 78 yards on 22 carries and all three of his touchdowns came on 1-yard runs.

Riggins' three TDs gave him 19 for the season, all on the ground, tying the record set by Jim Taylor in 1962 and matched by Chuck Muncie and Earl Campbell for rushing TDs in a season. Riggins' final touchdown also tied him with Dickerson for the NFL lead in total TDs scored this season.

Washington's Charlie Brown led all receivers with 140 yards and a touchdown on eight catches and the Redskins, the NFL leaders with an average of 33.8 points per game entering the contest, piled up 467 total yards to 191 for Los Angeles.

In addition to his four field goals, Moseley also added four extra points, giving him 130 points for the season, breaking the team record of 116 set in 1971 by Curt Knight and tied by Moseley in 1979.

Washington led 10-6 after the first quarter on Riggins' first touchdown and a 42-yard field goal by Moseley. The Rams scored on a 12-yard TD pass from Ferragamo to David Hill.

The Redskins began their 39-point surge early in the second quarter after Brian Carpenter intercepted a pass at the Los Angeles 26. On the next play, Theismann hit Brown for the TD and a 17-6 lead. Washington made it 19-6 at 2:42 of the period when Charles Mann sacked Ferragamo in the end zone for a safety.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Redskins marched 61 yards, capping the drive on Riggins' second TD for a 26-6 lead. Washington made it 29-6 with 1:08 remaining in the half on a 33-yard Moseley field goal.

On the second play following intermission, Rich Milot intercepted the third Ferragamo pass and on the fifth play Riggins bulled over, giving the Redskins a 36-6 lead.

Washington made it 39-6 just four minutes later when Milot intercepted another Ferragamo pass and Moseley kicked a 32-yard field goal. Early in the final quarter Moseley closed out Washington's scoring with a 19-yard field goal.

The Rams scored two touchdowns in the closing minutes, the first on a 1-yard run by Barry Redden and the second on a 3-yard pass from backup Jeff Kemp to Mike Guman. It was the first NFL TD pass for Kemp.

St. Louis 44, San Diego 14

In St. Louis, Neil Lomax passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more scores to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a rout of the San Diego Chargers.

The loss spoiled San Diego coach Don Coryell's first trip back to St. Louis since he left as coach of the Cardinals in 1977. The loss also dropped the Chargers further into the AFC West basement with a 4-8 record.

Lomax, who passed for four touchdowns last week, completed scoring passes of 71 yards to Pat Tilley and 10 yards to Doug Marsh in the first half before running for touchdowns of 1 and 11 yards.

The St. Louis defense forced San Diego quarterback Ed Luther, playing in place of the injured Dan Fouts, into three interceptions, sacked him six times and also recovered three fumbles in helping the Cardinals to their most lopsided win since they beat New Orleans 40-7 in 1980.

After rolling to a 37-7 halftime lead, the Cardinals scored their only points of the second half on a 1-yard run by Ottis Anderson, who rushed for 113 yards in the game for his fifth 100-yard day of the year.

Luther finally vented some of his frustration by tossing a 24-yard scoring pass to Kellen Wilsow with 2:50 left in the game.

Lomax finished the day with 12 completions in 20 attempts for 247 yards and one interception. Luther was 24-of-51 for 338 yards.

The win was the Cardinals' first ever over San Diego and raised their record to 5-6-1.

New York Giants 23, Philadelphia 0

In Philadelphia, Butch Woolfolk set an NFL record with 43 carries, gaining 159 yards and scoring a touchdown Sunday while rookie Ali Hajl-Sheikh kicked three field goals to lift the New York Giants to a victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The victory snapped a seven-game winless streak for the Giants, 3-8-1, whose last triumph was Sept. 26. The Eagles, 4-8, suffered their first shutout since the second game of 1977, extended their losing streak to six games and dropping to 0-6 at Veterans Stadium this season.

Woolfolk, a second-year player who picked up the running load after an injury to Rob Carpenter, gained 115 yards in 26 carries in the first half and scored on an 11-yard run in the second period to help give the Giants a 13-0 lead. He rushed the ball on the last four plays of the game to break the league record of 42 carries set earlier this year by James Wilder, of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Woolfolk's rushing also set up field goals of 25, 48, and 27 yards by Hajl-Sheikh, with one coming in each of the first three quarters. Rookie John Tuggle scored the final points for New York on a 7-yard run early in the fourth quarter.

Dallas 41, Kansas City 21

In Irving, Texas, Tony Dorsett galloped for two touchdowns and became the ninth player to surpass the 8,000-yard-career rushing mark and the Dallas Cowboys fought off a flurry of Bill Kenney passes to down the Kansas City Chiefs.

For the first time all season the Cowboys led from start to finish, raising their record to 10-2 and staying even with the Washington Redskins atop the NFC East.

Kansas City, 5-7, fell behind by a 27-0 score before Kenney began to pick away at the Dallas secondary.

Dorsett ran 28 yards for Dallas' second touchdown midway through the second quarter and then broke free for a 32-yard scoring run early in the third period.

Cleveland blanks New England, 30-0

By United Press International

Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe knows the feeling. Too often, Sipe has seen opposing teams take advantage of Browns' mistakes and turn them into victories.

"It's nice to be on the other side for a change," said Sipe Sunday after the Browns intercepted five New England passes en route to a 30-0 shutout of the Patriots.

"If we take care of our business the rest of the way, we'll be playing in post-season games," added Sipe.

Tom Cousineau led the Browns, 7-5, to their second straight shutout. Fellow linebacker Chip Banks returned a Steve Grogan pass 65 yards for a touchdown and Hanford Dixon intercepted two passes off Grogan's replacement, rookie Tony Eason.

"This proves that last week's shutout (30-0 over Tampa Bay) was no fluke," said Browns' coach Sam Rutigliano. "Our defense played great."

Rutigliano said Cousineau only needed time to turn into the player he was in college and in the Canadian Football League. The two-time All America from Ohio State played in the CFL from 1979-81 before joining the Browns for last year's strike-shortened season.

"Cousineau had a great game and he's gotten better each game because he has had time to play," said Rutigliano. "He's finally realized that he can't ever play as well as his salary (a reported $650,000) — no one can."

Cousineau and Hanford Dixon each had two of the interceptions for Cleveland.

New England coach Ron Meyer was expectedly sullen with the loss.

"We couldn't do much right," said Meyer. "We took a sound beating from a pretty good football team."

Grogan sustained a fracture of the left fibula when he was hit by Cousineau but played until midway through the third quarter before he was relieved by Eason.

"Steve Grogan is our quarterback and will continue to be our quarterback if he's healthy," said Meyer. "We wanted to make a change to give Tony Eason a chance to run the team."

The Browns moved to the Patriots' 4-yard line on their second possession, but settled for Bahr's 22-yard field goal at 10:54. Banks picked off a Grogan pass and ran 65 yards for a touchdown at 6:41 of the second quarter to make it 10-0.

Cleveland surprised New England, 6-5, with an onside kick following Banks' touchdown and Al Gross recovered at the Browns' 48. Sipe completed a 39-yard pass to Belk, giving Cleveland a first down at the Patriots' 9-yard line and three plays later, hit the rookie receiver for the score at 9:07.

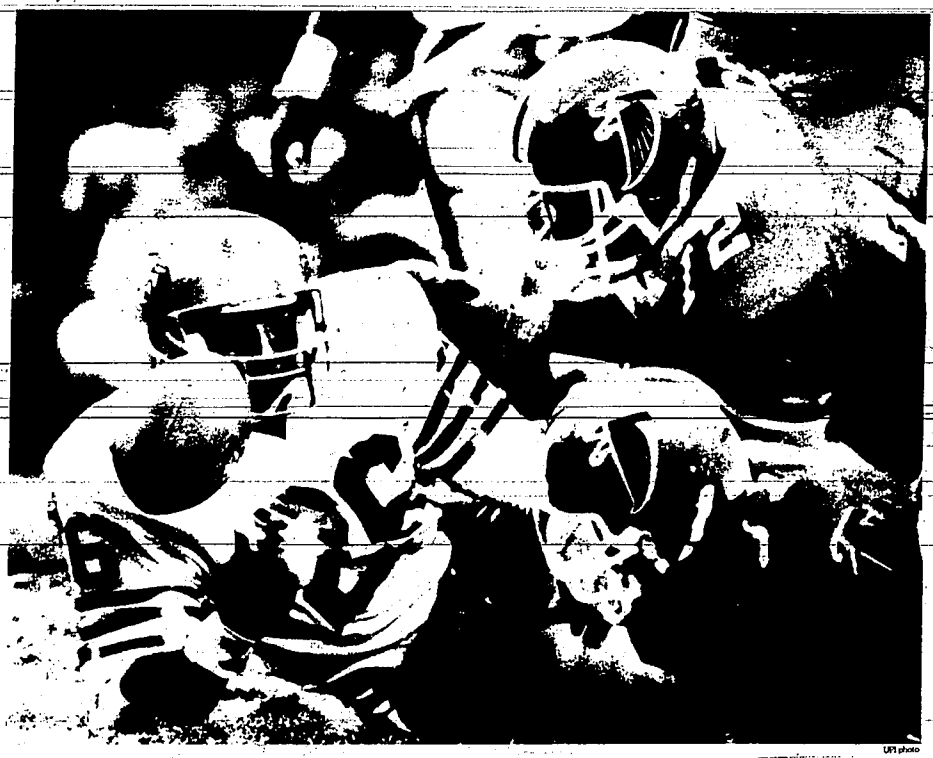

Cincinnati 38, Houston 10

In Cincinnati, Ken Anderson fired three touchdown passes in the first half and Pete Johnson enjoyed the second-best rushing day of his career with 137 yards and a pair of touchdowns to pace the Cincinnati Bengals to a rout of the Houston Oilers.

The blowout was similar to Cincinnati's 55-14 romp over the Oilers just two weeks ago in Houston.

Cincinnati, 5-7, has won four of its last five games while Houston, 1-11, has lost 18 of its last 19.

Anderson, who completed 10-of-15 passes for 177 yards, threw touchdown strikes of 45 yards to Cris Collinsworth and 16 yards and 1 yard to Dan Ross.

Minter puts Argos into Grey Cup finals

By United Press International

Running back Cedric Minter scored his second touchdown of the game from two yards out with 27 seconds remaining Sunday, capping an arduous comeback that sent the Toronto Argonauts into the Grey Cup final with a wild 41-36 triumph over the stubborn Hamilton Tiger Cats.

The former Boise State University star's run ended one of the most furiously played Eastern Division finals in CFL history as the Argos struggled back from a 15-1 first-quarter deficit and a 23-6 deficit at the half to force a 33-33 deadlock with just over seven minutes left in the contest before 54,530 fans at Exhibition Stadium.

The Tiger Cats, who received tremendous performances from rookie running back Johnny Shepherd and two-time CFL MVP Dieter Brock, lost a last chance at victory with 18 seconds remaining when Brock fumbled a snap from center at his own 20 and the Argos recovered.

In a game that continually defied expectations, the Argos marched from their own 40 to the Hamilton 4, where they faced a third down and 1-½ foot situation with 53 seconds left. Rather than take the seemingly easy field goal, Toronto chose to go for the first down. Minter barrelled over to the 2-yard line, then plunged into the end zone on the next play.

CEDRIC MINTER
Two TDs for Toronto

Much of the Argos' comeback resilience was supplied by quarterback Condredge Holloway, who refused to buckle under a terrific onslaught by Brock and the Hamilton offense in the first half. Holloway, like Brock a former winner of the CFL's most outstanding player award, completed 24 of 31 passes for 364 yards and three TDs.

The Argos tied the game 33-33 with 7:38 left as Holloway found wide receiver Emanual Tolbert wide open in the end zone for a 38-yard TD pass.

Hamilton, which finished in third place with a 5-10-1 record, shocked the Argos in the first half, led by Shepherd, who completed the game with three TDs and rolled up 105 yards along the ground in 14 carries and 82 aerial yards on four receptions.

B.C. 39, Winnipeg 21

In Vancouver, British Columbia, wide receiver Mervyn Fernandez terrorized the secondary for 260 yards and three second-half touchdown catches, vaulting the British Columbia Lions into their first Grey Cup final since 1964 with a triumph over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Lions, who finished atop the CFL West with an 11-5 record, will host the Toronto Argonauts in next Sunday's Grey Cup final at B.C. Place Stadium. Earlier in the day, the Argos outlasted the Hamilton Tiger Cats 41-36 in the Eastern final.

With B.C. trailing 21-11 early in the third quarter, Fernandez, the Lions' leading receiver during the regular season, began an assault of three unanswered touchdown receptions from Roy Dewalt before a record football crowd of 59,409 at B.C. Stadium.

The Bombers had what appeared to be a comfortable lead when reserve quarterback John Hufnagel threw a 42-yard TD strike to Rick House at 5:53, but Fernandez struck just 33 seconds.

He beat Winnipeg's all-star cornerback David Shaw on man-to-man coverage to haul in a 61-yard scoring strike. Lui Passaglia, who earlier in the quarter was forced to settle for a single after missing a 42-yard field goal, converted to pull B.C. to within 21-18.

Fernandez, a second-year pro from San Jose State then moved B.C. in front for the first time since the opening minutes of the game by grabbing a 27-yard strike from Dewalt to climax a three-play, 65-yard march at 4:02 of the fourth quarter. He caught the pass in front of Wylie Turner at the Winnipeg 15, and faked the Bomber defender off stride to score the TD.

After one futile series by the Bombers, the Lions got the ball back on their own 29, and Dewalt wasted little time before uncorking a 71-yard spiral to Fernandez.

The Lions' speedster sprinted under the ball, halted momentarily to haul it in and strode into the endzone past Turner, who had fallen on the play.

The Lions went to the ground for their last touchdown, wearing down the Bombers with a 61-yard, six-play march, capped when John Henry White bulldozed over from the nine-yard line with 1:46 left. Passaglia converted to give B.C. an 18-point bulge and seal the contest.

Detroit rallies to beat Green Bay in overtime

By United Press International

MILWAUKEE — Without their chief engineer the Green Bay Packers' offense collapsed Sunday, paving the way for a marvelous comeback and a 23-20 overtime victory for the Detroit Lions.

Green Bay, behind two touchdown passes by Lynn Dickey, led 20-3 at halftime. But he remained in the locker room for the remainder of the game because of a mild concussion. Dickey was relieved by David Whitehurst and the Packers managed just 84 total yards under his direction.

The winning points came on Eddie Murray's 37-yard field goal with 6:30 left in overtime. Murray had missed a field goal attempt earlier in the period, but Detroit soon got the ball back when Whitehurst threw his second interception. Bobby Watkins returned it to the Packers' 27.

The outcome left both teams with 6-6 records, one game behind the Minnesota Vikings in the NFC Central.

"I never prayed so hard in my life," said Detroit Coach Monte Clark. "It just seemed we were destined to win after our disastrous first half."

"I'm extremely upset over this one," said Green Bay Coach Bart Starr. "This was a game ready to be taken and we didn't take it."

NFC Central

The difference in the game was that Detroit had its chief offensive weapon while the Packers played without theirs. Billy Sims rushed for 189 yards on a team-record 36 carries and he picked up a number of key first downs.

Dickey was 10 for 17 for 123 yards in the first half but in the remaining 2 ½ quarters, Whitehurst completed just 6 of 17 passes for 33 yards. Green Bay was outgained 383-239 and converted just one of 13 third down attempts.

"I felt comfortable when I started," said Whitehurst, who fumbled his first snap from center leading to a Detroit touchdown. "I just didn't play very well. There were a few times when I had people open and I didn't hit them."

Green Bay had the ball twice in overtime for minus 3 total yards. Murray, who earlier had connected on field goals of 30 and 31 yards, converted on his second attempt in overtime to save the Packers' offense another appearance on the field.

"It was still early in the overtime and I felt we had an opportunity to get the ball back," Murray said about his missed attempt. "On the second kick, I went back to basics and tried not to think about the past situation. I just kicked it like I had to."

The Lions, who trailed 20-3 at halftime, tied the score at 20-20 when Eric Hipple hit Freddie Scott on a 9-yard scoring pass with 6:55 left in regulation. Detroit had to travel just 24 yards after Kenneth Jenkins returned a Bucky Scribner punt 17 yards.

The Lions had an opportunity late in the game but Dexter Bussey fumbled Hipple's pitchout at the Packers' 17-yard line.

The Lions scored just 24 seconds into the second half, after Whitehurst fumbled his first snap from center and Detroit's Alvin Hall recovered. On the next play, Hipple rolled 11 yards around left end for a touchdown.

Murray kicked a 30-yard field goal to cut the Packers' lead to 20-13 after three quarters.

Breakdowns by the Lions' punting team led to both Green Bay touchdowns as the Packers took a 20-3 halftime lead.

Trailing 13-3 with less than a minute left in the half, Detroit punter Mike Black dropped the snap from center. After evading one tackle, he attempted to pass but it was intercepted by Jim Laughlin, who returned it to the 8-yard line.

Three plays later, Dickey hit Paul Coffman with a 1-yard touchdown pass, giving the Packers their 20-3 lead.

Green Bay also scored in the second period on field goals of 36 and 34 yards by Jan Stenerud. The second was the 331st of his career, putting him four behind all-time leader George Blanda. Stenerud has connected on 14 of 16 attempts this season.

The Packers scored first after the Lions failed on their first punt attempt early in the opening period.

Tom Turnure's snap from center was low and Black picked up the ball and ran out of bounds. Six plays later, Dickey connected with John Jefferson on a 6-yard scoring pass. It was Dickey's 25th touchdown pass of the year, breaking Cecil Isbell's 1942 Packer record.

The Lions' only first half score was a first period 31-yard field goal by Murray.

Chicago 27, Tampa Bay

In Tampa, Fla., Walter Payton sloshed for two touchdowns and moved into third on the all-time NFL rushing list with 11,252 yards to lead the Chicago Bears to a victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Payton scored on an 8-yard run in the second period, giving him his seventh 1,000-yard season, which ties the league record shared by Jim Brown and Franco Harris.

He added a 2-yard touchdown as time ran out in the third period.

Matt Suhey scored Chicago's first touchdown on a 2-yard run in the second period and defensive end Mike Hartenstein finished out the scoring with a 17-yard run after scooping up a loose ball fumbled by quarterback Jeff Komlo.

Payton moved ahead of O.J. Simpson on the all-time rushing list with a 3-yard run with seven minutes to play in the third period. Simpson had rushed for 11,236 yards.

Payton finished with 106 yards on the day and trails only Brown, who had 12,312, and Harris, who went into Sunday's games with 11,725 yards.

The first half was played in heavy rain. A light drizzle continued through the second half.

The Bears dominated the game as they improved their record to 5-7, keeping alive their hopes for a playoff spot. The Bucs fell to 1-11, setting the stage for next Sunday's matchup at Tampa Stadium with the 1-11 Houston Oilers, who lost to Cincinnati Sunday.

Suhey was the leading rusher for Chicago with 112 yards. It was the first time two Bears have rushed for more than 100 yards in the same game since November 1978, when Payton and Roland Harper did it against the Bucs at Chicago.

Only 36,816 fans showed up for the game, one of the lowest totals ever for a professional game at Tampa Stadium. Many left before halftime because of the heavy rain. There were 27,839 no-shows.

Tampa threatened only twice, once on the final play of the first half when Jerry Golsteyn hit wide receiver Kevin House on a 42-yard pass to the Chicago 11 as time ran out.

Then, in the closing two minutes of the game, the Bucs moved to the Chicago 9, but Komlo was sacked for a 8-yard loss and then threw two incomplete passes as the Bears' defense held.

Last-second FG saves Raiders again

By United Press International

Tom Flores is getting used to close football games.

Flores' Los Angeles Raiders were pounding the Buffalo Bills 24-3 early in the fourth quarter Sunday, before Buffalo stormed back into a 24-24 tie with just over four minutes left to play.

The Raiders calmly marched to the Buffalo 17, and kicker Chris Bahr kicked a 36-yard field goal with three seconds left, to lift Los Angeles to a 27-24 victory.

"That's four out of the last five we've won in the last minute," said Flores, whose club tightened its stranglehold on first place in the AFC West Division with a 9-3 record.

"We wanted to play it cautiously at the end, and work the ball down field," Flores added. "The worst that could have happened to us could have been overtime."

It looked like the game was going into an extra period after the Bills, rallying behind second-year quarterback Matt Kofler, playing for the injured Joe Ferguson, scored three touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

"I'm proud of every football player we have," said Bills Coach Kay Stephenson, whose team dropped into second place in the AFC East with a 7-5 record. "I say it again, it takes a lot of character and I'm proud of the way we came back. We weren't quite good enough."

Los Angeles got off to a 7-0 lead at 7:10 of the first quarter, when running back Frank Hawkins scored on a 2-yard run. The Bills cut the margin to 7-3 at 10:56 of the second quarter, on a 48-yard field goal by Joe Danelo, but Bahr connected on a 41-yard field goal with 1:14 left in the first half to give the Raiders a 10-3 advantage.

The Raiders took a 17-3 lead at 6:08 of the third quarter, when Marcus Allen scored on a 4-yard run off-tackle, and the Raiders took a 24-3 lead at 4:05 of the fourth quarter, when quarterback Jim Plunkett threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to tight end Todd Christensen.

Kofler, a second-year pro from San Diego State, was called on after Ferguson suffered a head injury in the second quarter. Kofler threw a 23-yard touchdown pass to rookie tight end Tony Hunter at 6:16 of the fourth quarter to cut the Raiders' advantage to 24-10.

The Bills nailed the Raiders Ray Guy as he attempted to punt, and Buffalo linebacker Joe Lumpkin recovered at the Los Angeles 9. The Bills drove to the Raiders' 1, and running back Joe Cribbs dove over from a yard out at the 9:06 mark to cut the Los Angeles lead to 27-14.

A squib kick by Danelo bounced off of two Los Angeles receivers, and was recovered by Bills reserve lineman Darryl Caldwell at the Raiders' 23. The Bills were unable to move the ball, and on 4th-and-15 from the Raiders' 29, Kofler threw a touchdown pass to wide receiver Perry Tuttle to tie the score with 3:41 left in the game.

The game was marred by numerous penalties and several fights. Chris Keating and Eugene Marve of Buffalo and the Raiders Rod Martin were ejected from the game.

Denver 38, Seattle 27

In Denver, Gary Kubiak, a rookie quarterback whose previous regular-season NFL experience consisted of a hold for an extra point, passed for one touchdown and ran for a second and Rich Karlis kicked five field goals to lead the Denver Broncos to a win over the Seattle Seahawks.

Denver put together nine scoring drives, seven of them set up by Seahawks' turnovers.

Despite their problems holding onto the ball, the Seahawks came within a touchdown of the Broncos late in the third quarter, but Denver rallied with three field goals and a safety in the fourth quarter to ice the win.

The safety came in the last two minutes of the game when Seattle quarterback David Krieg stepped out of the end zone while trying to pass.

Krieg threw for more than 400 yards in the losing effort, but fumbled three times and threw four interceptions. Altogether, Seattle turned over the ball eight times.

Kubiak started for Denver in place of rookie John Elway, who reported sick with the flu early Sunday.

The first Seahawks fumble came on the second play of the game when fullback David Hughes lost the ball. It was recovered by Denver linebacker Randy Gradishar, and the Broncos took over at the Seattle 32. They drove down to the 25, where Karlis kicked a 42-yard field goal.

Later in the quarter, Krieg was intercepted on the Denver 1 by safety Steve Wilson.

The Broncos tried a couple of running plays with a net gain of 1 yard, but then Kubiak hit Steve Watson for a 20-yard gainer out to the 22. On the next play, Kubiak threw to Watson again and the AFC's No. 2 pass receiver eluded a pair of defenders and broke a tackle en route to a 78-yard touchdown.

In the second quarter, Denver scored on a 25-yard field goal by Karlis and a 24-yard run on a reverse by Gerald Willhite. Both scoring drives were set up by fumbles committed by Krieg.

Seattle finally scored in the last minute of the first half. The Seahawks drove 80 yards in five plays, with the touchdown coming on a 50-yard pass from Krieg to Byron Walker.

Denver extended its lead to 27-7 in the third quarter after capitalizing on another interception of Krieg. The Broncos drove down to the 7, where Kubiak ran it in for the score.

But the Seahawks scored twice in 4:27 to pull within 27-20. Hughes capped an 80-yard drive with a 1-yard run. The Seahawks held the Broncos after the ensuing kickoff, and then scored on a six-play drive completed by a 17-yard pass from Krieg to tight end Pete Metzelaars. The point after attempt by Norm Johnson, however, and Denver led 27-20.

The Broncos then added field goals by Karlis of 21 and 38 yards and Seattle replied with another touchdown drive with less than five minutes to play. The scoring play on the drive was an 11-yard pass from Krieg to tight end Charle Young.

With less than two minutes to play, Seattle was forced to begin a drive from their own 2-yard line after receiving a punt from Denver. Krieg, backed up deep in his own end zone, stepped over the end line before releasing the ball and the referee ruled it a safety.

Denver got the ball back on the Seattle 28 when Tom Jackson recovered an attempted onside kick by the Seahawks. That set up Karlis' fifth field goal, of 40 yards. The kick broke his previous record of four field goals in a single game.

Marino and friends run over Baltimore, 37-0

By LES KJOS
United Press International

MIAMI — Not only does Dan Marino make pro football look easy, he even makes it sound that way.

The rookie from Pittsburgh completed 14-of-21 passes for 240 yards in the Miami Dolphins' 37-0 victory over Baltimore Sunday and threw an electrifying 85-yard touchdown pass to Mark Duper to trigger a 24-point second quarter.

"I just threw the ball as far as I could and he went and got it. It was a great play by Duper," Marino said. "I don't believe I was sacked all day and the running game was working. When that happens, you can do well."

Marino had gone into last week's 17-6 loss at New England leading the NFL in passing statistics but had a disappointing outing and dropped to sixth. That ranking is sure to improve following Sunday's performance.

"I don't think we played that terrible last week. We just missed on a lot of things," Marino said. "That happens sometimes. It was a learning experience. By watching films, you know what you should have done in certain situations."

Coach Don Shula was not only happy with Marino's day but was obviously pleased with all phases of the Dolphins' play.

"Everything came together for us today," Shula said. "We needed it, especially after last week. Our defense continues to do a good job. Offensively, we just had everything going for us -- the run and the pass."

In the gloomy Baltimore locker room, coach Frank Kush was almost at a loss for words.

"Really, there is not a heck of a lot you can say. They dominated us completely," Kush said. "I don't think we were ever in it."

The victory improved Miami's record to 8-4 while Baltimore dropped to 6-6 and is virtually out of playoff contention.

With the game scoreless, fullback Andra Franklin started the second-period outburst by bulling 8 yards for a score. Uwe von Schamann added a 42-yard field goal and then Marino fired the 85-yarder to Duper.

Just seconds later, rookie receiver Mark Clayton scored on a 60-yard punt return to make it 24-0.

Marino scored on a 1-yard sneak in the third quarter and Woody Bennett punched in from a yard out in the fourth while Miami's defense, led by Bob Baumhower and Lyle Blackwood, shut down the Baltimore offense.

Quarterback Mark Herrmann made his first start for Baltimore since being injured in the pre-season and was ineffective, throwing two interceptions. Mike Pagel, who started at quarterback the first 11 games of the season, didn't play a down.

The big plays by Duper and Clayton came within 42 seconds of each other. On the first one, with 1:42 left in the half, Marino rolled to his right and lofted a pass down the right sidelines. The speedy Duper caught up with it on the Colts' 40, high-stepped away from cornerback Kim Anderson and raced to the score.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF EMERGENCY RULE-MAKING AND NOTICE OF INTENDED REGULAR RULE-MAKING

In compliance with Sections 67-5203(b) and 67-5204(b)(2), Idaho Code, notice is hereby given that the Division of Welfare, Department of Health and Welfare, State of Idaho, has undertaken emergency procedures for rule-making. The action, under Docket Number 0304-8309E, involves rescinding of Docket Number 0304-8308E of rules governing the Food Stamp program, Title 3, Chapter 4, Rules and Regulations of the Department of Health and Welfare. The action has been taken under the authority granted in Section 56-202(b) and 39-106(1), Idaho Code, for the purposes of rescinding the provisions of Docket Number 0304-8308E which pertains to 7 CFR 273.21, Monthly Reporting and Retorspective Budgeting (MRRB) for Food Stamps, effective October 1, 1983.

Emergency rule-making is necessary because the federally mandated legislative changes required by Public Laws 96-249, 97-35, 97-98, and 97-253, which were published in Interim Rule under Amendment 184 with an October 1, 1983, implementation date, were postponed by Congressional action under Public Law 98-107 enacted on September 30, 1983.

The rules, which were adopted by emergency procedures on the 1st day of October, 1983, under Docket Number 0304-8308E, and filed by the undersigned on the 1st day of October, 1983, are superceded by Docket Number 0304-8309E which repeals 0304-8308E, thereby restoring the rules to the text prior to October 1, 1983, to the former text.

In addition, notice is also given, in compliance with Section 67-5-203(a)(1), Idaho Code, that the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Welfare, has also initiated regular-rule-making under Docket Number 0304-8308.

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance of the intended permanent action, which includes a summary of intended rule-making as well as a request for a waiver to federal regulations that has been submitted to the United States Department of Agriculture.

1. Food Stamps households, unless exempt from monthly reporting, will be required to submit reports monthly of their income deductions and other eligibility circumstances. In addition, all households except migrant farmworker households will have their allotment levels determined retrospectively, rather than prospectively, except during the beginning months of certification. During the beginning two (2) months, all households will have their allotment levels determined prospectively. A retrospective determination is the use of actual income and expenses from a prior month for an issuance month while a prospective determination is the use of income and expenses anticipated in future months for an issuance month.

2. The income received in the beginning two months, which is not of a continuous nature, will not be counted in the third (first retrospective) month if a waiver is granted. If a waiver is not granted, the income received in the first (application) month, which is not of a continuous source will not be counted in the first retrospective month.

3. These changes affect approximately 23,000 households and are required by changes in Federal Statutes and Regulations.

Within the time limits specified below any person can review the proposed rules in the DHW Administrative Procedure Section or in any local regional administrative offices of the Department. Copies of the proposed rules will be made available upon written request specifying the docket number(s) cited above and at a rate of ten cents (10¢) per page. Checks must accompany the request and be made payable to the Department of Health and Welfare for the amount of $7.90.

Anyone can submit written comment regarding the proposed rules, and any individual, or industry who may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit information concerning the anticipated economic impact of the proposed action. For assistance on technical questions concerning the proposed rules, contact Pennie Bjornstad, Chief, Bureau of Benefit Payments, Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Welfare, (208) 334-4337, Boise, Idaho. NOTICE OF INTENDED RULE-MAKING

In compliance with Section 67-5203(a) (1), Idaho Code, notice is hereby given that the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Welfare, has initiated rule-making. The proposed action, under Docket Number 0301-8306, involves the adoption, amendment, repeal, and renumbering of rules governing Eligibility for Financial and Medical Assistance, Title 3, Chapter 1, Rules and Regulations of the Department of Health and Welfare. The action is proposed under the authority of implementing and clarifying the provisions of various public laws and existing policies, effective as soon as possible.

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance of the intended action and of the principal issues involved:

The Department proposes to adopt, amend, repeal, and renumber rules relating to: the AABD blindness and disability review requirements; AABD income and resource exclusions for home energy assistance; AABD income disregards for impairment-related work expenses; AABD definitions of sheltered workshops and work activity centers; AFDC employment and training exemptions for pregnancy; AFDC good cause determinations and sanctions for failure to participate in the WIN or SWEP programs; AFDC suspensions; AFDC income and resource exclusions for home energy assistance; AFDC budget computations; MA for certain disabled children; time limits to file an appeal; and continuation of AABD pending an SSA hearing decision.

Within the time limits specified below, any person can review the proposed rules in the DHW Administrative Procedure Section or in any of the regional administrative offices of the Department. Copies of the proposed rules will be made available upon written request specifying the docket number cited above and at a rate of ten cents (10¢) per page. Checks must accompany the request and be made payable to the Department of Health and Welfare for the amount of $4.70.

Anyone can submit written comment regarding the proposed rules, and any individual or industry who may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit information concerning the anticipated economic impact of the proposed action. For assistance on technical questions concerning the proposed rules, contact Pennie Bjornstad, Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Welfare, (208) 334-4340, Boise, All written comments and data concerning the proposed rules must be directed to the undersigned and must be postmarked or delivered on or before December 5, 1983, from twenty-five (25) or more interested persons, or from an association presenting a petition with signatures of not less than twenty-five (25) members of the organization or from a governmental subdivision or agency. Hearing requests should include a statement of the direct interests of the petitioner(s) in the subject matter of the proposed rules. Any hearing site(s) will be accessible to the physically disabled. Interpreters for persons with hearing impairments and brailled or taped information for persons with visual impairments can be provided upon five days notice. For arrangements, contact the undersigned at (208) 334-4397.

007—Jobs of Interest

There comes occasionally a job with qualifications different enough, and locale special enough, that it warrants a unique description. So here goes.

The person in this position might have to get up at 3 AM and help your two-man crew plow snow in a mobile home park. Or repair a leaking water line on a Sunday in sub-freezing temperatures. And your multi-hyphenate ultimate responsibility of keeping a new sewage plant and a park-owned water system in top running condition. Further, be responsible for supervising a larger summer crew in maintaining lawns around 146 mobile home pads. You will be responsible for collecting monthly rent and forwarding records on same to home office for computer maintenance and monthly billings.

Now the good news. Rod Top-A-Mobile Home Park is located only three miles from Ketchum/Sun Valley, Idaho, and that puts it in the back yard of Baldy, a ski mountain without parallel in this country. Ketchum/Sun Valley is only 10 miles south of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area and is in the heart of fantastic fishing and hunting. Hiking trails await the outdoorsman. Cross country skiing of all types is everywhere within an hours's drive.

Salary? Not fantastic like the surrounding region, but more than adequate. And that's because the position comes with a two-story log home at the park site. Two bedrooms, 1½ baths, living and dining rooms, kitchen, laundry, closed-in patio and two-car carport. Some utilities are included. TV cable is part of the package. And all those perks are NOT taxable because the park manager is required to live at the job site. Employer pays for health and life insurance, and annual vacation.

Prefer a mature individual, mechanically inclined, loves the outdoors and winter sports. Apply to Box E-54, Times-News, PO Box 548, Twin Falls, ID 83301. Send job resume for last 10 years and—at least—two character and two business references.

WANTED: Good auctioneer. Must be dependable & available. Send full resume, training, exp & phone # to Box 449, Filer ID 83328.

DENNIS the MENACE

"DON'TCHA EVEN WANNA KNOW WHAT I'M IN FOR?"

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"Some people pay a compliment as if they expected a receipt." -- Frank McKinney Hubbard.

The ACBL Fall Championships will start this Friday, Nov. 25, in Bal Harbour, Fla. Various events are scheduled for all classes of players; even kibitzers are welcome. The play will be competitive but friendly. A kibitzer might even wonder why a dummy frowns instead of paying a compliment when the declarer lands a slam.

North's two-club bid is the Stayman convention, inquiring about major suits. When South promises four hearts, North uses Gerber to check on aces-and-bids six-hearts when South shows all three of the missing aces.

South wins his diamond ace and if he is a rubber bridge player playing in his first duplicate tournament, he will make the correct rubber bridge play to give him the best shot. He will lead a trump to dummy's ace and return a trump to his nine. This safety play guards against losing two trump tricks whenever either opponent holds four trumps, including the Q-10. If East shows out on the second trump, South's king wins and a trump toward dummy's jack settles the issue. If East has the four trumps, South's play of his trump nine will limit his losses in the trump-suit to only one.

At duplicate, the contract should be rather normal, so South should try to make as many tricks as he can. Instead of choosing a safety play in trumps, he cashes his king, intending to finesse, but when the queen appears, it's an easy road to 13 tricks.

No compliments for those who take only 12 tricks when everyone else is taking 13.

ANSWER: Club deuce. West should have a long diamond suit. Hope for partner to have the club queen while you still have the diamond ace.
